NEW HAVEN DEALS DENOUNCED

LEWIS C. LEDYARD, SCORED TODAY IN NEW HAVEN TRIAL

This sketch of Lewis Cass Ledyard was drawn from life in the United States Court in New York.

ASSAIL NEW HAVEN MEN IN TRIAL

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—That the directors of the New Haven Railroad covered up stock transactions, founded dummy companies and otherwise manipulated high finance to control and monopolize the transportation lines of New England, steam, electric and water, was charged to the jury in the United States District Court today by Robert L. Batts, special assistant attorney-general, handling the government's end of the conspiracy trial.

William Rockefeller and the other millionaire defendants again heard themselves bitterly assailed and arraigned by Batts, who went on to show the alleged manipulations of the accused directors in "gobbling up" the transportation facilities of New England, in violation of the Sherman act.

"We will trace for you all the manipulations of stock," he said, "whereby the defendants plotted to monopolize New England transportation in flagrant violation of the statutes of the United States."

Recurring to the "Cornair agreement," Batts said:

"The defendant Ledyard was there. He was not there as a director of the New Haven. He held a place on the board of the Boston & Maine Railway as a representative of the American Express Company.

"We will show that by a statement by the defendant Ledyard himself."

It was the first time the government attorney had mentioned Lewis Cass Ledyard, former personal counsel to the late J. Pierpont Morgan. That left James H. Hemenway and Charles M. Pratt the only accused millionaires who had not heard themselves mentioned by name in the day and a half duration of the prosecutor's speech.

"In the acquisition," said Batts, "of property which promised competition, these defendants, in one case, paid $20,000,000 for a line, which price was at least $15,000,000 in excess of its value.

"It was expected by these defendants that the excess payment would meet the deficit of operation for a period of five years, but as a matter of fact the excess was used up within two years."

Batts then again went into the Boston & Maine deal, charging that the accused directors manipulated stocks and bonds, so that the stockholders who were not bought out were mulcted.

Exonerate German Arrested as a Spy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Hustav Kopsch, the young German formerly employed at the Carnegie Institute here, who was arrested, accused of being a spy, because he was alleged to have drawings of Fortress Monroe and other United States fortifications in his possession, will never be brought to trial. The Department of Justice announced this afternon that the case against him had been dropped because it had been definitely learned that he was not a spy.

Crown Prince's Aide Killed.

ZURICH, Oct. 19.—According to advices to Swiss papers from Berlin, Major von Plastia, aide-de-camp to the German Crown Prince, was killed in the Argonne on October 11.

ASQUITH ILL; CARSON QUITS CABINET

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Premier Asquith is ill. For a few days he will be unable to attend to his duties. This was the formal announcement from the residence of the Premier today.

The illness comes at a time when a Cabinet crisis is in the air. Sir Edward Carson resigned yesterday. General Ian Hamilton has been ordered back from the Dardanelles. Winston Churchill is reported to be planning to join his regiment at the front.

That Asquith himself would resign was intimated in yesterday's papers. Instead comes the announcement of his illness.

The cabinet crisis arises from two issues: First, the Balkan situation, co-ordinated with the apparent failure of the Dardanelles campaign; second, the conscription question.

Premier Asquith's illness came as a surprise. The first intimation of it was the following formal statement:

"The Prime Minister is suffering from an attack of gastro-intestinal catarrh. This necessitates a few days' complete rest."

Sir Edward Carson has thus far made no statement explaining his resignation. His withdrawal from the Cabinet had been anticipated, as he has stayed away from Cabinet sessions for two weeks.

Second in significance only to the illness of the Premier is the withdrawal of General Sir Ian Hamilton from the Dardanelles. Officially he has been ordered to London "to report"; but the fact that his successor has been appointed and dispatched to the Mediterranean apparently indicates his permanent removal from the Dardanelles sphere of activity.

Major General Charles Carmichael Monro has been appointed his successor, and until his arrival at the Dardanelles, command there will be held by Major General William Riddel Birdwood.

MORE MILITIA ARRIVE IN NASHUA

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 19.—The two Manchester companies of the State Militia, which came here to reinforce the two Nashua companies after yesterday's disorders, in which strikers were shot and bayoneted, marched out of the Nashua Manufacturing Company's plant this morning and dispersed a crowd of 1,000 strikers who had gathered in front of the mill.

The new companies marched out on Factory street, separated, cleared the street for 300 yards in each direction, and then established a picket line, with a soldier at every six yards.

STRIKERS GIVE GROUND.

The crowd of strikers gave ground without disorder. The militiamen had their bayonets fixed. Once or twice words passed between strikers and militiamen, but they did not come to the point of violence. After two hours the militia reentered the mill grounds.

The mill is now guarded by four companies of militia, the two Nashua companies remaining inside. Searchlights played from the top of the mill all night, and are lights illuminated the surrounding territory.

Attorneys representing the strikers planned today to see Mayor James B. Crowley and ask him to prevent further attempts to run trains along the spur tracks into the mills. They say the running of trains yesterday precipitated the riots, as the strikers thought strikebreakers were hidden in the cars. The Mayor will be asked to appeal to R. S. Milliken, the mill agent.

A thorough investigation of yesterday's disorders was to be started here today under the direction of the Mayor. The trouble resulted in the injuries of twenty persons, two of whom may die.

The cases of the six strikers arrested yesterday for disturbing the peace came up today before Judge F. B. Clancy in the Nashua District Court.

Bandits Rob 2 Trains on the West Shore Line

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Six armed men held up and robbed two freight trains and attempted to rob an American Express train on the West Shore Railroad, at the entrance to a tunnel between Congers and Haverstraw, N. Y., early today.

After loading an automobile with packages taken from the two freight trains, the bandits escaped to the southward, in New Jersey.

The robbers tampered with the wire controlling a signal and caused the light to show red. This halted the first freight train, and as it stopped the holdup men appeared beside the locomotive and covered the engineer and firemen with revolvers.

They ripped open several freight cars and loaded packages into their automobile. Then they ordered the engineer to proceed.

The second freight train was held up and robbed in a similar manner.

The American Express train stopped at the red signal, but as the robbers headed for the cars the engineer started the train and escaped.

Saved from Death by a Mewing Cat

PAWTUCKET, Oct. 19.—The mewing of a cat awoke Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Pearson, of No. 15 Brook street, early today, who found three of their five children insensible from gas, supposed to have entered the house from burning beds of coal near the house.

FIRE STORY TOLD IN COURT

Alexander Borstel, the boy charged by the Dorchester police with setting last week's disastrous fire at No. 96 Olney street, Dorchester, was given a hearing before Judge Churchill in the Dorchester Juvenile Court today and held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury.

His mother, Mrs. Philip Borstel of No. 32 Vaughan avenue, wept almost continuously throughout the hearing, and at one time was forced to go out into the court entry, where she collapsed. She was revived by bystanders; and as the hearing ended and the boy came from the courtroom she met her son.

There was time only for a passing caress. The mother laid her hand across the boy's shoulder; the next moment he was on his way in the custody of court officers.

TELL OF CONFESSION.

Representative Peter J. Donoghue was the boy's attorney at today's hearing, and he remarked at one time:

"This boy is one of sixteen children."

Philip Borstel, the father, was also in court.

The police claim the boy confessed to setting the Olney street fire, and patrolmen and others testified today to hearing this confession.

Young Borstel is sixteen. As he was being brought to court today, he called the attention of his escort to a smell of gasoline on his clothes. "Sheriff Quinn cleaned this suit with gasoline," he explained.

In court, while Representative Donoghue represented him, Joseph H. Samuel and Raymond F. Delano acted for the government. Patrolman Frederick D. Donovan was the first witness.

"On the night of October 12,55 he said: 'I went to this fire with three other officers. I was kept busy holding back the crowd, but I heard some boys talking. Is heard Borstel tell about seeing some men in an automobile, so I took him to Sergeant Dennis J. Murphy, and he said he saw three men, that one of them ran between the houses, that another stopped him from going down the street, and that one of them had on 'half glasses.'

QUESTIONED BY CAPTAIN.

"I talked to the Davidson boy, too. He said he saw an automobile. I took Borstel and Davidson to the station. Borstel told his story to Lieutenant Keene. Captain Keating questioned Davidson and let him go, then questioned this boy.

"He asked this boy at last if he had started the fire, and the boy admitted it. When we put him into his cell he said: 'Why do you lock me up. This is the first time I've ever done anything.'"

Sergeant Murphy testified: "His father was sent for, and the boy admitted his guilt to his father."

Declare Truce in Fitzgerald, Curley Fight

Peace—or at least an armistice—was declared in the long-standing Curley-Fitzgerald fight today, when Mayor Curley announced his willingness to introduce former Mayor Fitzgerald as one of the principal speakers at the Democratic ratification meeting in Tremont Temple on Saturday night.

"As presiding officer of the meeting, I shall introduce every Democrat invited to address those present," the Mayor asserted. "The Democrats of Boston are one today in their determination to give Governor Walsh 50,000 votes at the coming election.

"Former Mayor Fitzgerald is a Democrat. I understand that he will be one of the speakers Saturday night. That ends the matter, so far as I am concerned. The re-election of Governor Walsh demands united action."

This will make the first time that Curley and Fitzgerald have met on a public platform since Mayor Curley's election. Curley last year vowed that he would not speak at any meeting addressed by Fitzgerald.

Fire Halts Opening of Medway Factory

Fire at noon today in the three-story factory building of the Alpha Hat Company, Medway, destroyed the third floor of the building and damaged by water stock stored on the two lower floors. The police estimate the loss at $10,000. The factory has been shut down six months, but was to open within a week. One hundred and sixty persons were to be employed in the building.

Auto Catches Fire In Medford Shed

An automobile stored in a shed of Ernest W. Palmer, plumber, at the corner of Harvard street and Boston avenue, Medford, caught fire today. The shed was destroyed. The police estimate the damage to the auto at $1,000.

PREDICT VICTORY IN JERSEY

By International News Service.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 19.—For the first time in the history of the United States a President voted for woman suffrage today.

Coming from Washington for that purpose President Wilson cast his ballot for an amendment to the New Jersey constitution, giving women the right to vote.

The President was met upon arrival at Princeton by varsity friends and by various suffragists. He followed his usual Princeton routine, proceeding directly to the polling booth, and after a brief walk through the quadrangle returning to his private car for his departure at 2 o'clock for the White House.

The President declined to pose for his photograph at the polling place, saying: "No, I don't want to make spectacle out of casting a ballot."

CHEERED BY STUDENTS.

A big crowd of cheering Princeton students followed the President in his walk through the town, and one youngster, driving a grocery wagon, seeing the crowd, but not the President, shouted:

"What do you think this is, a funeral?"

The President laughed heartily.

Secretary Tumulty left the presidential party at Princton Junction and went to Jersey City to cast his vote.

There was a big outpouring of voters throughout the State, with the suffrage leaders predicting victory by a majority ranging from 25,000 to 40,000.

The polls opened at 6 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m.

PREDICT BIG VICTORY.

"We have nothing to fear now but crooked politics, and 5,000 trained women watchers are at the polls to guard against that," said Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, president of the Women's Political Union of New Jersey.

"Nineteen of New Jersey's twenty-one counties have taken their stand for suffrage. The women have won," declared Mrs. William F. Felcher, president of the New Jersey State Association for Woman Suffrage.

"The suffrage amendment will be adopted by a majority of between 40,000 and 50,000."

Thus did former Governor Fort predict the result of today's balloting.

EFFECT ON OTHER STATES.

The opening of the polls marked the close of one of the most exciting political campaign of New Jersey's history. A continuous twenty-four-hour speaking campaign, which lasted until day broke today was only one feature.

The outcome of today's balloting may mean much for the suffrage question in three other Eastern States, New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. Elections on the question will be held in these States on November 2, and a victory in New Jersey today may spell victory in these other States two weeks hence.

STUDENTS CALLED IN INQUIRY

Thirty Harvard students who have registered as voters in Cambridge, and who in doing so were required to swear that they were "self-supporting," have been summoned before the Middlesex County Grand Jury by District Attorney Corcoran, in a move to investigate the "student vote."

The claim is, it is understood, that fraud was practiced in the registration of the students. Specifically it is charged that some of the registered students who swore they were "self-supporting" are not "self-supporting," under the legal definition of the phrase.

The law allows students to vote only when they are supporting themselves. About fifty Harvard students were registered at the time the lists closed.

The Republicans in Cambridge this year made unusual efforts to enroll men, and it is understood the investigation of the student vote was instigated by Democrats. At the time the students who were registering appeared before the Board of Assessors to swear they were "self-supporting," plain clothes men were at hand, notes were taken, and each student has since been investigated.

For several days Captain Herbert Gordon of the Cambridge police department, attached to the District Attorney's office, has been at work on the case.

Among witnesses summoned were the three Harvard recorders, George W. Robinson of the Graduate School; George W. Cram of the college, and Albert F. Fitch of the Andover Theological Seminary; the three Cambridge assessors, James J. Casey, Bernard F. Fallon and John C. Haverty; Chairman J. Frank Facey of the Registrars o' Voters in Cambridge and thirty Harvard students.

It is expected that the investigation will last several days.

"I propose to make a thorough investigation of the manner of registration of Harvard students," was the only comment District Attorney Corcoran would make.

ITALY DECLARES WAR AGAINST BULGARIA

By International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Italy today declared war on Bulgaria.

The following statement was given out at the Italian Foreign Office in Rome:

Bulgaria having commenced hostilities against Serbia by allying herself to the enemies of Italy, who are also at war against Italy's allies, the Italian government, by order of the King, declares a state of war to exist between Italy and Bulgaria.

Minister of Munitions David Lloyd-George announced in the House of Commons today that the method of Italy's co-operation with the allies in the Balkans is now under consideration by the allied governments.

Italy's action means, it is believed, that she will at once send a military expedition to the aid of Serbia.

Italy's formal entrance into the hostilities in the Balkan theatre followed reports that a secret treaty had been effected binding Italy to help the Entente Powers in the Balkans in consideration for Balkan interests, which Italy will acquire on the eastern side of the Adriatic, if the Quadruple Entente wins.

The Italian declaration of war is expected to have some political effect as well as a material advantage for the allies. Agents of the Entente Powers in Bucharest and Athens can use it as another argument in favor of the entrance of these countries into the conflict against Germany.

Italy's action is another indication that an army of tremendous strength is needed to defeat the great force which Germany, Austria and Bulgaria are pouring into Serbia to crush that country.

There are two routes open for the sending of Italian troops into the Balkans. One is through Albania and Montenegro, the other is through Salonica.

A despatch from Athens says that the Greek government has been instructed "that more reinforcements for the allies are being sent to Salonica." This may refer to Italian troops.

A Saloniea despatch to the Home Tribuna reports that allies' troops have landed on the Bulgarian coast.

The allies have rejected the Greek government's interpretation of the treaty between Serbia and Greece, it was announced at Athens today.

Ministers of England and Russia so notified the Greek Foreign Office on Sunday. The two envoys also gave notice that the Entente powers would considerably reinforce the allied troops in the Balkans.

They made it plain that the allies considered the duty of Greece to help the defence of Serbia against Bulgarian attacks, and that their governments did not agree with the Athens interpretation of the Serb-Greek pact that the present conditions make it unnecessary for Greece to act.

By capturing Vranje on the Salonica-Nish Railway, the Bulgarians have struck their hardest blow at the Serbs. The Serbian army in the north, which is engaged on a front south of the Save, Danube and Danube Rivers, is cut off from further Anglo-French reinforcements, according to a Bulgarian official statement issued at Sofia today.

The statement follows:

"The General Staff reports under date of October 15 that in Macedonia our advance on the Upper Bregalnitza is progressing. We reached the Kriva-Palanka-Kotchani line and the mountainous region of Kavka-Golak-planina, capturing Zurtavoselo, Pshichevo and Berevo. On the western slope of the Great Balkan line we reached Nevokolito, Repunica, Rovnobuce and Tcherenivre.

"In the Morave Valley we occupied Vranyalava (Vranje)."

The Bulgarian army at Vranje is the second of three Bulgar forces that invaded Serbia. It has advanced nearly 20 miles into Serb territory despite the violent resistance of the Serbian troops.

The military developments in the Balkans up to date indicate that the Austro-German forces and their Bulgarian allies are attempting by a brilliant coup to surround the Anglo-French and Serb armies and annihilate or capture them.

Serbia has been invaded at seven points on the northwest, the north and the east. The front stretches in a semi-circle from the Drina river to a point near Negotin, twenty-six miles above the Greek frontier in Southern Serbia.

TEUTONS CAPTURE OBRENOVATZ, SERBIA, BERLIN REPORTS

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Austro-German troops have captured Obrenovats, in Serbia, it was officially announced today by the German war office. Obrenovats is on the Save River, west of Belgrade. The Kolbara River flows into the Save there.

In the eastern theatre of war Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army has reached the Dvina River (Duena), east of Borkowitsch.

The part of the German official report dealing with the Balkan operations follows:

"We have captured Obrenovats. South of Belgrade, after battle, we reached the heights east of Vranje and south of Hipana. South of Orsova, on the Danube, General von Gallwitz captured the region west of Seona and the villages of Vodanj and Malakrana.

"The plateau of Lacica, southeast of Bosovac, to Mislienovats has been taken by us. The Bulgarians have captured Vranje and have crossed the Egri Palanka-Istib line."

British Lost 96,899 Men, Taking 20 Miles in Turkey

OFFICIAL reports show that the allies commanded by Sir Ian Hamilton suffered enormous losses in the Dardanelles.

In the land operations the official British casualties up to October were 96,899, OF WHICH NUMBER 18,957 WERE KILLED. Of these the Australian casualties were 29,121.

No official list of French casualties have been issued, but military experts say THEY ARE NOT FAR BELOW THE BRITISH.

Six French and British battleships and other warships have been sunk by mines, submarine and torpedo boats with a loss of 2,500 lives.

Aside from inflicting heavy losses on the Turks, THE ONLY CONCRETE RESULTS ACHIEVED BY THESE SACRIFICES IS THE OCCUPATION BY ALLIED TROOPS OF APPROXIMATELY TWENTY SQUARE MILES OF TERRITORY ON THE GALLIPOLI PENINSULA.

FRENCH REPORT BIG GERMAN LOSSES

BY CHARLES P. BERTELLI,
Staff Correspondent of International News Service.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—German troops are continuing their violent attacks, in which they have already suffered tremendous losses, against the French position northeast of Souches. The War Office announced today that three severe attacks with grenades were made by the Germans last night in the Bois et Hache, but that each one was repulsed by the French infantry, supported by batteries.

The following communication was issued by the War Office:

"During the night the Germans launched three violent attacks with grenades in the Bois au Hache, to the northeast of Souches. Our infantry, firmly established in the positions recently captured, completely repulsed the assailants every time with the support of our batteries.

"To the south of the Somme there was sharp rifle firing on both sides in the sector of Libons.

"In Champagne, some conflicts with bombs and petards occurred to the east of Navarin farm. Storms of shells from our artillery upon the enemy's batteries silenced an intense bombardment directed by the enemy upon the Eparges position.

"There is nothing to report upon the rest of the front.

"A group of our aeroplanes on the night of Oct. 17-18, bombarded the German aviation field at Burlies, to the northeast of Chateau la Some hangars and shelters were destroyed."

THE GREATEST CATARRH DOCTOR IN THE WORLD

Medicated Air Kills The Germs of This Dangerous Disease.

Catarrh is a disease caused by a Catarrh Germ—a germ that inflames membranes, clogs the throat, causing hawking, choking and other disagreeable symptoms are merely conditions brought about by these germs which have found lodgment in your nose and throat.

There is a preparation called Hyomei, made from pure oil of Eucalyptus combined with powerful germ destroying ingredients which does successfully treat and cure Catarrh to stay cured by destroying the germs causing it. You neither snuff it up your nose nor do you swallow it. You just breathe the medicated air through the little rubber inhaler that comes with the outfit. The penetrating, germ killing air of Hyomei enters every nook and crevice of your nose, throat and lungs, where ointments, lotions, stomach medicine, etc., cannot possibly reach. You receive a great drafts of it far up in your nose, throat and lungs. The air soothes and heals the inflamed passages, stops the germ poisons discharged, prevents further inroads, relieves the stuffed up feeling and makes breathing easy. Then, after you have breathed soothing air in positive, certain death to the catarrh germs themselves. It seeks out and kills wherever they are hiding and breeding in your system and destroys them entirely. When you have destroyed the germs you have destroyed the cause of Catarrh and the disease leaves you. A complete Hyomei outfit includes both a bottle of Hyomei liquid and the rubber inhaler through which you breathe it. Be sure to get the druggist from whom you buy to give you the complete outfit. No stomach dosing necessary. It is packed right in the box with the inhaler. Hiker Jaynes Drug Stores and other druggists in this vicinity sell the Hyomei outfit this way on a positive guarantee of successful use or your money back. Hyomei is without doubt the greatest Catarrh doctor in the world.—Advertisement.

About Those C. E-Z Lights

AN EXPLANATION

We are often asked why we spend time and good money in pushing the sale of the C. E-Z BURNER, when we know that it will give the customer more light for a smaller consumption in gas, thereby decreasing our sales.

The answer is simple. Any business, to live, must give SERVICE, and good service in the gas lighting business consists in giving the best possible light at the lowest cost. Thoroughly satisfactory service of this kind, such as comes with the use of the C. E-Z BURNER, will not only prevent inroads from competitive illuminants on our business, but will open up a field for gas lighting where CONVENIENCE and QUALITY are of vastly higher importance than cost.

THIS "SEE-EASY" LAMP, simple in structure, pleasing in appearance, with its rich and powerful light pleasantly diffused in all useful directions, and the tiny glimmer of the pilot self-lighting attachment clearly locating it in the dark, is thoroughly desirable.

The Chief Advantage of Crawford Boilers

over other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size." A fact worth noting.

These Boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and save fuel and labor.

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these Boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

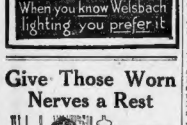
Give Those Worn Nerves a Rest



Don't give up. When you feel all unstrung, when family cares seem too hard to bear, and backache, dizzy headaches, queer pains and irregular action of the kidneys and bladder puzzle mystify you, remember that such troubles often come from weak kidneys and it may be that you only need Doan's Kidney Pills to make you well. When the kidneys are weak there's danger of dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. Don't delay. Profit by others experience.

A Revere Woman Says:

Mrs. E. C. Campbell, 124 Nearly pl., Revere, says: "I was at death's door with a bad case of kidney trouble and distressing pains across my back and my limbs and joints were swollen. I couldn't lie in one position for any length of time. The kidney secretions became unnatural and I was nervous and restless. Doctors were unable to do me any good. Five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me and five years have gone by now without any return of the trouble."

SAVING WIFE'S NAME HURTS CHARLTON

By International News Service.

COMO, Italy, Oct. 19.—The proceedings so far in the trial of Porter Charlton, who slew his wife and cast her body into Lake Como, are not favorable for a verdict of acquittal for the young American. Friends of the prisoner at the resumption of the trial today declared that Charlton had lost ground during the last days of the proceeding and he was sharply arraigned by his own lawyer for his manner of telling his story to Baron Scacca, the presiding judge, and the jurors.

"Charlton must abandon the attitude he has taken toward his wife's memory," declared Signor Cattanee, counsel for the defence. "The prosecution maintains that Charlton premeditated the crime and committed it after deliberation, but if Charlton would reveal all he knows he could disprove this. If he is to save himself he must go to greater lengths in his revelations concerning the abnormal woman who was his wife."

CHARLTON'S DEPOSITION.

Most of the afternoon session was spent reading Charlton's deposition to judge and jury. Some changes had been made in the original, which dealt with Charlton's marriage and stormy married life.

In his story of the crime Charlton swore that he could not remember striking his wife and that he remained in a daze for a long while afterwards.

The changes in the deposition were made to include facts which Charlton had not told the examining magistrate, when arraigned for preliminary hearing. The prisoner explained to the judge that he had withheld some things because he did not trust the court interpreter to translate them properly.

In his deposition Charlton said:

"The evening of the crime we went to dine at a restaurant, the terrace of which looked onto the lake. It was a beautiful evening, and I felt very happy. So did my wife. Suddenly she asked me why I was making signs to the ladies dining some tables back. I told her it was not true, but she insisted on going home and I complied.

PICKED UP A HAMMER.

"As soon as we were in the house she came to me and asked me to forgive her. She then told me to go out and spend an hour with Count —— as it would do me lots of good and quiet my nerves. The tone of her voice was unusually gentle and I again complied. As I was leaving she called me back and told me to be sure to stay out at least an hour and not to take the Cernobbio road, but the other.

"I went, but as I was not feeling well, I decided to return. I might have been out some fifteen or twenty minutes. It was about ten o'clock. As I entered I saw my wife sitting dressed and in the act of leaving. I said: 'Where are you going, my dear?' She looked at me scornfully, laughed and then said: 'Do you think I was going to stay with you forever?' That staggered me. The thought flashed to my mind that she was in love with somebody else, that she was going to desert me for another man, that she was actually going to a love meeting.

"Everything turned red before me. I remember having picked up a hammer, on hammer lying on the floor, and which I had used during the day to repair a bed. After that I remember nothing. I had given to that woman all I had myself and she was repaying me with ridicule and insults.

"No, I don't remember anything. It seems to me all a dream. What I remember is that the day after I found myself walking along a road with two suitcases and that at a certain moment I stopped to contemplate the rising sun. Yes, I also remember of finding myself on a large steamer surrounded by water, and that I was excited and relating the details of my crime to some people."

SAYS MIND WAS BLANK.

As to the throwing of the trunk into the lake, Charlton said:

"I learned of it in New York, when my lawyers and my relatives told me that the trunk containing my wife's body had been found in Lake Como. As my mind is all blank I can't say whether anybody helped me carry the trunk out of the house. I was very ill and don't think I should have been able to remove the trunk unaided. I don't remember when I sailed and whence I sailed. During the trip I was in a kind of a trance and it was in New York that I learned that I had travelled on the Princess Irene."

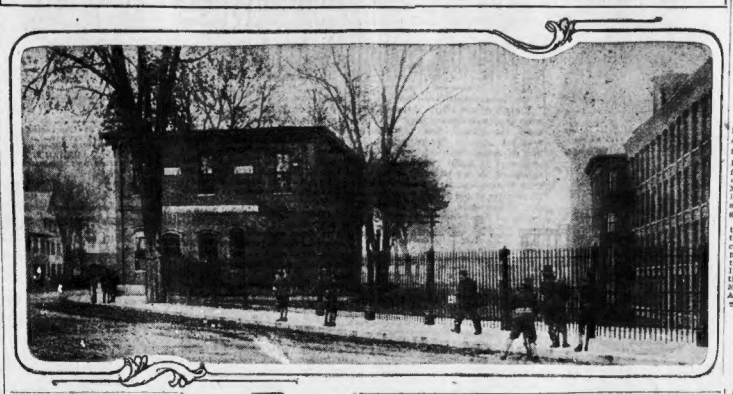
MILITIA GUARDING MILLS IN NASHUA



WALSH INSISTS ON TELEPHONE INQUIRY

Governor Walsh declared today that he would renew his fight for an investigation of telephone rates if re-elected.

Speaking at rallies in Watertown, Waverley and Belmont, Governor Walsh said:

"I take this opportunity to serve notice upon all whom it may concern that if I am re-elected I will recommend, in my inaugural address, an investigation of the telephone rates in this State.

"My attitude during the last legislative session, when I fought for this investigation, has been heartily indorsed by the Democratic State Convention, but, beyond that, I am certain that it is approved by the people. They will be saved money in their telephone charges if such an investigation is carried out."

Governor Walsh indicted the Senate of 1915 for defeating the proposed investigation. He declared that by that act alone the Senate manifested its subjection to the hidden influence of invisible government.

"I recommended an investigation of the telephone rates," said the Governor, "and the Public Service Commission submitted a special report recommending the investigation. A similar investigation had saved the people of New York city $2,000,000 in their telephone bills.

"The matter was heard by the legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs and not a word was spoken against it. Finally the matter went to the Senate, where it was killed without even a roll call. Not a word of opposition was spoken against it.

"Mr. McCall has declared that the invisible government does not exist, but I hope that in the present campaign he will explain how and why the telephone investigation was killed by the Republican Senate."

Speaking in the dairying districts of Lexington, Bedford and Billerica, Governor Walsh arraigned the Legislature for the passage of the milk bill, which, he declared, would have driven the farmers out of business if it had not encountered his veto.

"I recommended an investigation of the milk situation in order to ascertain what was needed by the consumer had jumped, despite the fact that the farmers are getting no more for their product," said the Governor. "The Republican Legislature killed that recommendation. Mr. McCall, after a year's delay, has evidently seen the wisdom of it, for I understand that he is now ready to admit that the investigation would do more than anything else to give the farmers a proper return for their investment and their labor."

tivski were so badly injured that they were unable to appear in court. The other four arrested, John Velopka, Martin Kaspar, John Kaswski and Sophia Grovilees, were in court. The cases of all six were continued in $300 till tomorrow, Attorney William H. Barry represented them.

Ten of the injured, the majority of whom are suffering from bayonet wounds, are still in St. Joseph's Hospital, to which they were rushed in ambulances immediately after the clash. Three of them are women and the rest men.

Two of them, Adam Radewick and Josephine Vencius, may die. The former was shot in the abdomen by a militia officer during the earlier moments of the trouble. The woman was stabbed with a bayonet when the militiamen charged the angry, doggedly retreating mob.

More than a dozen others, the majority women, were treated at the hospital for minor wounds and then allowed to return to their homes. Several policemen and two militiamen, injured by flying rocks, were treated at the manufacturing company's plant. Their names were not given out.

The injured at the hospital are:

Adam Cetrolowicki, Franklin street.
Laudwick Bagalewican, High street.
Adam Radewick, No. 24 High street.
Mrs. Alexander Peloeby, No. 25 High street.
John Valanevick, No. 33 High street.
William Walsk, No. 1 Pearson avenue.
Josephine Venchus, School street.
Frank Stavunk, No. 14 Canal street.
Annie Kapiea, No. 4 Atwood court.

Louis Koutrovick, No. 4 Williams court.

Among the more seriously injured of those treated at the hospital and then allowed to depart were:

Leon Vonelka, No. 27 High street.
Zygmont Tartuck, No. 25 High street.
Stanley Wayland, No. 4 Harrison street.
Andeon Hamelwacz, No. 40 High street.

The condition of Radewick, who was married but three days ago and who was one of the striking millhands, was reported as critical at an early hour today. When he dropped, shot by the militia officer, his young bride was at his side. She at once fell to her knees, gently raised his head and held it in her lap until the ambulance reached the scene.

The six arrested during the trouble are all suffering from bayonet or club wounds. They were treated by the city physician. They are: Adam Petivski, John Velopka, Martin Kaspar, John Kaswski, Frances Rzikevitch and Sophia Grovilees. All are charged with rioting.

The two new militia companies hurried to this city last night were Companies F and H of the 1st Regiment, N. H. N. G., of Manchester. They arrived here in special trolley cars shortly after 6 o'clock. They were assigned to quarters on the mill company's grounds, Factory street, where the local companies, D and I, have been encamped the past ten days.

COFFEE DWARFS CHILDREN PHYSICALLY—MENTALLY

Prominent School Workers Assert Coffee Drinking School Children are Undersize, Underweight and Backward in Studies.

The State Board of Health of Texas has been making inquiries into the effects of coffee upon school children. "Children who drink coffee, for breakfast," says one report, "come to school exhilarated, they work strenuously in the morning, and are overflowing with energy and vitality, BUT THE END COMES LAST under the school routine; they become fatigued more quickly than the other pupils, and by the close of school in the afternoon they are exhausted to the point of stupidity. They are nervous and therefore unstable in their deportment.

It has also been found by other investigators that "children who drank coffee averaged nine and one-half to more than four pounds less in weight, and from one-half inch to more than one inch less in height than the children who abstained from coffee." They were also found to have an average of three pounds less in hand strength than children who never drank coffee."

NOTE—Many parents have found it to their children's advantage to give them Instant Postum as the hot morning beverage instead of coffee. This delicious food-drink resembles coffee in looks and flavor, but is entirely free from the disturbing coffee drug, caffeine, or any other harmful ingredient.

TWO AMERICANS DEAD IN TRAIN ROBBERY

By International News Service.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 19.—Two Americans were killed and four wounded when Mexican bandits wrecked a southbound passenger train on the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico Railway at 10:30 o'clock last night and then robbed the passengers, shooting down those who resisted.

The dead are: H. H. Kendall, engineer of the train, and Corporal McBee, American soldier.

Mexicans fired into the train to intimidate the passengers while their companions did the robbing.

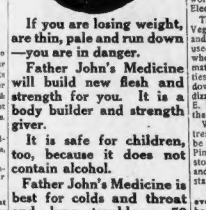
MRS. GALT TRIES ON GOWNS OF TROUSSEAU

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—With President Wilson in New Jersey today to vote for equal suffrage, his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt, spent a part of the day in Baltimore conferring with her modiste. She was accompanied to the Monument City by Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's niece, and it is understood that she tried on various gowns of "boiling green" that have been designed there.

The President will return here in time to have dinner at the Galt home tonight. It is understood that a family conference will be held during the present week at which all of the details of the wedding will be discussed. It is likely that Miss Margaret Wilson, the president's eldest daughter and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre will be present, and if the advice of the closest friends of the President is followed it is expected that a speedy announcement of the time and place of the ceremony will be made.

Already it is apparent that Mrs. Galt will take personal charge of the White House from kitchen to garret. She has much experience in getting results in the public markets of the city. Hardly a day goes by but that she does not ride in her small electric automobile to the market, where personally she directs the purchase of the meats and other articles that are needed for her kitchen. It is smilingly declared by veteran market men that Mrs. Galt and the housekeeper of the White House have been acquainted for many months, almost since President Wilson took charge of the White House.



If you are losing weight, are thin, pale and run down—you are in danger.

Father John's Medicine will build new flesh and strength for you. It is a body builder and strength giver.

It is safe for children, too, because it does not contain alcohol.

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, step elastic, and I lost that tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KRAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

We challenge anyone to name even one other medicine that has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SAYS COULD NOT SLEEP AT NIGHT

Mrs. Henry T. Brown of 48 Wells Ave. Claims Was Cured by Plant Juice.

Science and philanthropy are doing much for the disease-ridden of the future. Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, has done more for the ills of today than any other remedy, and thousands have willingly testified to the truth of this statement, for in the discovery of Plant Juice and the consequent use and benefits received by a multitude who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney trouble, it has proven itself a real friend to humanity. The kind of proof that is convincing and that is adding thousands to the already great number who use Plant Juice, when in a condition of ill health, are the statements of local people who have given it a fair trial and have been benefited thereby.

For instance, the signed testimonial of Mrs. Henry T. Brown, who resides at No. 48 Wells Avenue and is well known socially, states:

"For the past 19 years I have suffered with stomach, liver and kidney trouble. My stomach was in such a weak state that I could not keep any food in it, was throwing up bile and felt weak and miserable. I was so nervous that I could not get any sleep at night, my circulation was poor, had cold hands and feet, and even on the hottest day I felt cold. I read in the home papers of what Plant Juice was doing for people I knew, so decided to try it. I cannot say how glad I am that I did try it, for had I not done so I would be in my grave at the present time. I was in such a terrible state, have only taken three bottles and have no more trouble with my stomach, liver or kidneys; sleep well at night, have a fine appetite and can eat any kind of food. Plant Juice has cured me and anyone can come to see me at my home and I will be glad to tell them what it has done for me."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

For Backache

At the first "pain in the back" get from your druggist four ounces of Rheumasalts. Take two teaspoonfuls in one-half glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your back symptoms will improve, because your kidneys are working right.

Rheumasalts is a wonderful, effervescent lithia drink, which helps the weakened kidneys and liver and cleans out the stomach of toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet. It is an absolutely harmless uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Acts quickly without griping or nausea.—Advertisement.

CARRANZA IS RECOGNIZED BY U. S.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—General Venustiano Carranza was today recognized as the head of the de facto government of Mexico by the United States.

This action was formally taken in a note dispatched to Eliseo Arredondo, Carranza's confidential agent here, by Secretary of State Lansing.

The note stated that the government of the United States was glad to recognize the de facto government of Mexico, of which Carranza is the head.

It further stated that this government is ready at any time to receive an ambassador from that government, and that it will dispatch a United States ambassador to Mexico City as soon as possible. Arredondo was asked to communicate this information to Carranza.

The ministers from Uruguay, Bolivia and Guatemala and the ambassadors from Brazil, Chile and Argentine have taken action similar to that of Secretary Lansing.

It is expected that Arredondo will be formally received as Carranza's ambassador here.

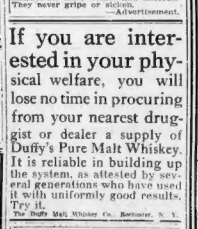
GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if you find that your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning—if you have given up hopes of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Fluid Enserol. Mix this with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, no doubt, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

MAMMA! GIVE A CASCARET QUICK, LOOK AT TONGUE

Don't you see your child is bilious, feverish, sick, constipated.

Relieve little stomach, liver and bowels with candy cathartic



Listless, peevish, feverish, drooping. Little stomach sick, breath sour and tongue coated. Mamma, you must act now or your little one will be real sick soon. Get a 10-cent box of Cascarets at the drug store, give a whole Cascaret any time. Cascarets are harmless and children love this candy cathartic which stimulates the little liver, cleans the thirty feet of tender bowels and sweetens the poor, sick stomach in a few hours.

Mothers know that Cascarets act and act thoroughly and that they open the little folks right up. Cascarets is best laxative for men, women and children. They never gripe or sicken.—Advertisement.

THE REV. D. M. LOCKROW, head of the Tremont Temple Brotherhood, who comes out for Shaw for Governor.

M'CALL OUT OF THE RACE, SAYS SHAW

William Shaw, the Prohibition candidate for Governor, today attacked Samuel W. McCall, the Republican nominee, for what he termed Mr. McCall's refusal to recognize the progressive issues of the day.

"Mr. McCall has dug into the barrel of speeches he delivered twenty-five years ago," said Mr. Shaw, "and is trying to put them across as present-day innovations. Mr. McCall is not a back number; he is a reminiscence.

"He has begun to find out at last that there is a sentiment in this State and very strongly in his own party for Prohibition. He will find out, too late for his own good, that he is out of the race. The fight is between Mr. Walsh and myself for election.

"McCall is still talking the tariff, which is out of politics, and the issues that might have been issues when he first broke into the political limelight. The sop his party has thrown out to the Progressives will win for them but few Progressive votes. My platform is the most progressive in this State, and if the Progressive National Convention of 1912 had not declined to indorse Prohibition I would have joined the Progressive Party."

Mr. Shaw spoke at rallies in Plymouth County, in the same territory covered by Mr. McCall yesterday.

There are five hundred members of Tremont Temple Brotherhood "rooting" for the Prohibition candidate for Governor.

Many of these men have been allied with the Republican party, but think the time is now ripe to make a greater effort in behalf of prohibition.

The Rev. D. M. Lockrow, who is head of the organization, is leading the men in this fight. Every home in certain sections of the city will be canvassed.

"Never before have the men been so wide awake to the cause of prohibition," declares Pastor Lockrow. "Last Sunday I placed a Shaw button upon every member of the brotherhood of which I am the leader."

PETITION FROM WEST REACHES WASHINGTON

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Bearing with them a tiny bar of pure red gold from the empire mine, the oldest working mine in California, and a box of orange blossoms, both to be presented to fulfill their traditional functions, at the wedding of President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, three girls of the Golden West under the chaperonage of Mrs. Gaillard Stoney of San Francisco, president of the Woman's Board of Exposition, bore down on Washington today, to invite the President to attend the Pacific Coast World's Fairs.

Miss Altha McCuen, a San Francisco orphan, who won a ten dollar prize for writing a better invitation to the President to come to California than any other girl in the Western metropolis' public schools, is in the party.

Miss Esther Hull and Miss Dorothy Starr, also of San Francisco, are eighteen-year-old representatives of the private schools and the girls' high school of San Francisco, selected for the trip by Mrs. Stoney.

The petition borne by the group is signed by $50,000 of the citizens and school children of California, and urges that the President attend the San Francisco and San Diego Expositions. Mrs. Stoney says she is confident that the chief executive will accept.

The party will be received at the White House tomorrow, when they will present the petition, gold, orange blossoms and the congratulations of California to the President.

Mrs. Stoney also has a personal letter to the President from his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Elliott, of Berkeley, Cal.

Formal invitations from the Mayor of San Francisco and the President of the Panama-Pacific Exposition also are to be presented by the party.

Today Mrs. Ira P. Bennett, of San Francisco and Washington, took the visitors motoring through the national capital's streets and parks.

Cameron Spear Is Freed By President

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 19.—While President Wilson was speeding to New Jersey today it was announced that he had pardoned Cameron Spear of New York, now serving a five-year term at Atlanta, for using the mails to defraud. Spear is suffering from bright's disease. The President on two previous occasions refused to pardon him. Spear is said to have gotten more than $1,000,000 in his fraude.

INDOOR LIFE MAKES FAT

TAKE OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN, OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FAT.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against over-stoutness, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air weakens the oxygen-carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any person who is satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout should go to a good druggist and get a box of oil of korein capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

Even a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight, digestion should improve, energy return, footsteps become lighter and the skin less flabby in appearance.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot injure, helps the digestion and is designed to increase the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. Any person who wants to reduce their weight 15 or 20 pounds should give this treatment a trial. There is nothing better.

NARROW GAUGE COMMUTERS DELAYED

Commuters on the Narrow Gauge railroad from Lynn, Revere and Winthrop were delayed in reaching Boston today when the ferryboat Newtowne of the company's service became disabled in midstream while making the trip from East Boston to Boston at 8 a. m. The captain signalled for assistance and a tugboat responded and towed the Newtowne to the Boston slip.

Meantime officials of the company had a crew of the ferryboat Brewster get up steam and take the place of the Newtowne, the latter having made several other trips to and from East Boston with the assistance of several tugs.

When the Brewster was put in commission the Newtowne was left at her slip in East Boston to undergo repairs.

News of the plight of the Newtowne reached other commuters who arrived at the East Boston wharf, and many left for Boston in a roundabout way through the tunnel.

This is the first time in years that such an accident happened to one of the Narrow Gauge ferryboats.

Thomas Taggart's Case Dismissed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 19.—The election case involving Thomas Taggart, in which it was charged that the Democratic national committeeman was guilty of conspiracy, in connection with alleged fraudulent elections here, was dismissed today. Collect $187 Per Second for Hospital

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—E. T. Stotesbury, the banker, got $61,970 in subscriptions within ten minutes at a dinner given to aid the Children's Hospital. There were 240 guests.

When he announced the total subscribed he brought his gavel down and declared that he would add $50,000 as his own contribution.

This brought the ten minutes' grand total up to $111,970, or $187 per second or $11,197 per minute.

Italians Advance on Carso Plateau

By International News Service.

ROME, Oct. 19.—Intense activity is developing in the Austro-Italian theatre of war. The Italian War Office announced today that the Austrians are making violent efforts to recapture Pregasina on the western shores of Lake Garde, in Trent.

Along the Tyrolese frontier, there have been severe bombardments supporting infantry attacks.

An important advance has been made by the Italian troops in the Monte San Michele sector on Carso plateau. Austrian attacks were repulsed.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage, and the musty mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw the through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Advertisement.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

It becomes beautifully soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! All dandruff goes and hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just sprinkle a little with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and one of the first you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

HOW ANY WOMAN CAN DRY CLEAN

Put gasoline and solvite in a wash boiler and save five dollars.

Here's a way to make soiled or dingy-looking wearing apparel look like new. Any woman can easily clean and restore the original color and brightness to veil gloves and shoes, neckties, ribbons, silks, satins, laces, net-waists, coats, furs, shirtwaists, children's coats, suits, caps, kimono garments, dolls, linen, lawn, organdy and chiffon dresses, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Just two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves, then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come looking clean, bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

It only takes a few moments to do what dry-cleaning establishments would charge five dollars or more for. It is as simple as ordinary laundering and you can't make a mistake. Any druggist will supply two ounces of solvite, which is simply a gasoline soap, and you can obtain the gasoline at any grocery or garage. Then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your dry-cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

MERCEDES IN A STAR ACT AT KEITH'S

Comes Mercedes in his much talked-of impossible act, set the scientists to pondering and the whole big audience that watched him at Keith's last night to wondering at his feats of thought transference.

Mercedes' head is Keith's bill that is both long and strong on good features—one that is both satisfying and entertaining. It is a show that is not only well balanced, but is also chock full of things worth while and acts worth seeing.

"The Musical Enigma" is the title of the puzzling thing Mercedes has as his assistant Mlle. Stantone, who remains seated before a piano on the stage. The psychic expert does his work from the audience. Into his ear he whispered the title of the piece of music which the spectator desires played—and Mlle. Stantone plays it. A more difficult task comes later, when Mercedes announces that the pianist may play tunes mentally hummed by any spectator.

There are plenty of laughs in the bill, too, and the biggest growse out of "Woman Proposes," a splendidly acted little playlet brimming over with bright lines and situations. "Woman Proposes" is one of the best of an unusually large number of good sets.

Love and Wilbur, on their visit to Boston, thrill the audience with their acrobatic stunts. Another couple on their first visit who are heartily received is Eunice Burnham and Charles Irwin in a song sketch at the piano.

Charles Mack and company in "A Friendly Call" have the goods and get the applause, and so does Miss Dorothy Toye, who not only sings excellently, but possesses the most uncommon talent of being able to sing soprano and tenor—and both are superb.

The Watson Sisters made a big hit with their singing and dancing, and Al Herman, billed as "The black laugh," has a way that is all his own of bringing down the house in handclapping. The film feature showing the world's news in moving pictures is full of interest.

The Burgessens, laugh-provokers, bring to a close a mighty fine show.

Park Theatre.

Curiously enough, "The Chorus Lady" had a long run at the Park Theatre when it was a dramatic house. The feature picture at the Park this week is "The Chorus Lady," with Cleo Ridgeley in the part created by Rose Stahl.

The story is of a keen-witted chorus girl who saves her sister from falling into the power of a designing man of the world, being willing in doing so even to lose the love of her detective sweetheart. The atmosphere of the stage as it is behind is vividly set forth on the screen.

"Help Wanted" is the second of the Paramount pictures to be shown on the Park's bill this week. This is the story of love and the business code of morality obtaining in some offices and which is not only full of interest and thrills, but teaches a lesson also.

Boston Theatre.

There are many strong features in the two big shows offered at the Boston Theatre this week. The first three days a great double bill is presented, with the superb drama, "The Spender," or "The Fortunes of Peter," as one of the big attractions. This tells the story of a young Englishman who comes to America to seek the hand and fortune of an heiress. He falls in love with a girl, but her father throws them both into the street. Then the young man shows the stuff he is made of, puts his shoulder to the wheel and eventually regains his rightful place in the order of things. There is a big strike scene, with a troop of cavalry and the standing off of a mob by holding a lighted cigarette over a barrel of powder and many other exciting episodes. "The Inheritance" is a three-part drama with an excellent cast. Other features include Wallie Van in "Quits," a new comedy; "When Mice Marry," a novel and entertaining cartoon comedy; the Pathe News of the world, and, of course, Caroline B. Nichols and The Padettes appear in daily concerts.

Waldron's Casino.

"The Maids of America" are entertaining at Waldron's Casino this week and the audience at the two performances yesterday agree that a very bright, lively show is the result. The show is really a big production upon which a large sum has been lavished to produce the best effect. The leading comedians are Al K. Hall and Don R. Barclay, both lively boys, who get laughter in original ways. The show is full of ginger and snap and the chorus is unusually large and pretty.

Modern Theatre.

The principal attraction at the Modern Theatre this week will be the widely renowned Velaska Gurnett in the photo-play, "The Soul of Broadway." Sensational scems the most fitting word in connection with any endeavor of this talented lady, and in this product of the screen she has reached heights to be considered amazing. As may be judged by the title, the play is indigenous to New York, and is a picture of theatrical life as it is known on that great discerning artery of the metropolis.

GERMAN SIDE OF WAR SHOWN IN FILMS

The German side of the war is shown in a series of sensational moving pictures being presented this week at Tremont Temple.

The pictures were taken by Edwin F. Weigle, staff photographer of the Chicago Tribune.

Most of the pictures were taken on the French, Russian and Italian battlefields, with the special permission of the German government, and show conditions as they actually are. Half of the proceeds from the presentation of the films now being shown at Tremont Temple will be given to the Blinded and Crippled Soldiers' fund of the Austro-German armies.

Mr. Weigle followed the German hosts into three different theatres of war. On the west he went to Poland and Galicia. On the west he accompanied the German and Austrian troops to the French battle front. In the South he scaled the Tyrolean Alps, where the Teuton allies were getting ready to repel the Italians in their advance.

At Doberitz, the big prison camp near Berlin, he was allowed to take many pictures of the French, English and Russian prisoners.

Pictures of German troops marching into action and taking positions in their trenches opposite those of the French are shown.

Wonderful pictures of the big German 20 centimetre guns battering down the forts of Freemeyl were obtained by the use of a tele-photo lense. By that means Mr. Weigle was able to get pictures of shrapnel and high explosive shells as they were poured into the Russian positions by the Austrian and German artillerymen.

Machine gun batteries in action and thousands of troops in action before Przemsyl and Lemberg are also shown.

Grand Opera House.

Wilton Lackaye, in "The Man of Shame," is featured in the Broadway photo play at the Grand Opera House. The cast also includes Rosemary Theby and Harry C. Myers, both Broadway favorites.

Mr. Lackaye will be remembered as leading man in such successes as "Trilby," "The Pit," etc., and is seen at his best in this interesting photo drama.

The surrounding bill includes Agnes Vernon in "The Girl of the Dance Hall," Cleo Madison in "Alias and Alaska," Max Asher in "When the Wets Went Dry," also the Universal Animated Weekly.

The Aerial Living Models, now in their second week, are not only worth the price of a high order, but mystifying as well.

St. James Theatre.

There is a big vaudeville bill this week, but really the feature of the show is the film presentation of Donald Brian in Harold MacGrath's novel, "The Voice in the Fog." It is a thrilling drama and is the first appearance of Mr. Brian, who is a Boston boy, in photo drama. Walter D. Kneeland and company have a clever playlet entitled "The Fixer," which was written by Ex-Chief Howe of the New York fire department. The Pichianni troupe of acrobats, Willie Smith, the boy comedian; Jennings and Evens, and the Berlin Serenaders were all big hits.

Exeter Street Theatre.

For the first half of the week, Jesse L. Lasky presents Donald Brian in an exciting modern photo-play, based on the famous novel, "The Voice in the Fog," by Harold MacGrath. The last three days of the week the popular screen favorite, Blanche Sweet, will be shown in another of Jesse L. Lasky's incomparable photo-plays, "The Secret Sin." Other attractions at each performance.

HOW I DARKENED MY GRAY HAIR

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and they were all expensive. I finally ran onto a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 ozs. water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp.

Plays That Remain in Boston Theatres

Colonial Theatre.

"Zeigfeld Follies" has entered upon the last two weeks of its prosperous visit at the Colonial Theatre. The big cast of players includes Ina Claire, Mae Murray, Anna Pennington, Lucille Cavanaugh, Justine Johnstone, the Oakland Sisters, Kay Laurell, Gladys Feldman, Leon Errol, W. C. Fields, Ed. Wynn, Charles Purcell, Will West, George White, Carl Randall, Phil Dwyer, Bert Williams and numerous others.

Hollis Street Theatre.

The last two weeks of the engagement of "Nobody Home" started last evening at the Hollis Street Theatre. This delightful musical comedy has been captivating the theatregoers of this city for three months.

Toy Theatre.

The Copley Players commenced the second week of their season at the Toy Theatre last evening in Stanley Houghton's "Independent Means."

Park Square Theatre.

"Twin Beds" entered upon its third month at the Park Square Theatre last evening with the unqualified endorsement of the thousands who have already viewed it with unbounded pleasure. There is no evidence of any slumping of desire upon the part of the people of Boston to attend this hilarious play.

Plymouth Theatre.

"Back Home" at the Plymouth has settled down apparently for a successful engagement. The play makes a strong appeal to scores of sentiment and a bit of melodrama, both of which are to be found in abundance in "Back Home."

Majestic Theatre.

"The Birth of a Nation" begun its last fortnight at the Majestic last evening. All Boston records have been broken by this amazing photoplay.

Wilbur Theatre.

In Boston, as in London and New York, where the play scored a year of success in each city, Cyril Harcourt's comedy, "A Pair of Silk Stockings," in its last week at the Wilbur, appeals particularly to the theatregoer of refinement and intellect.

Castle Square Theatre.

"The Blindness of Virtue" has made such an extraordinary impression at the Castle Square Theatre that John Craig will continue to run it next week. Then will follow a new and original comedy, as yet unnamed.

Shubert Theatre.

The last eight times of "Experience" at the Shubert Theatre began last night, when this famous morality drama enters upon the eighth week of its tremendous success in Boston.

Tremont Theatre.

"On Trial" begins its fourth week at the Tremont with ever-increasing business. The indications are that this extraordinary play will remain in Boston for some time.

Globe Theatre.

"The Dairy Maids," one of the brightest musical comedies in vaudeville, headed the bill at the Globe last night. Eddie Foley, the comedian of the show, is a big favorite here. Herman Beltz in a series of song impressions; Kay and Vernon, a sister act; Dale and Thomas, a popular skiwalk team, and other features combine to make a big show.

BOSTON MOVIE FANS TO MEET FILM STARS

The moving picture fans of Boston are soon to have the opportunity of seeing their film favorites in real life. The leading screen stars of the country will attend the third annual movie ball, which is to be held in the Boston Arena on Wednesday evening, December 1, under the auspices of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Massachusetts.

The stars are so eager to meet the fans as the fans are to meet them. They well remember the reception which they received at last year's ball, when almost 10,000 fans gathered in the Arena and saw Governor David I. Walsh and Mary Pickford lead the grand march. Five thousand other fans failed to secure admission to the ball on account of the limited capacity.

The feature of this year's movie ball will be the double sextette grand march, headed by the Governor and some screen star. The star and the other five couples, who will compose the sextette, are to be chosen by the readers of the AMERICAN. A vote to be used will be found on Page 7 of the Sunday and Daily AMERICAN.

The AMERICAN offers 121 awards to the voters in the contest. The eleven voters submitting the largest number of votes for the stars who will compose the double sextette will have a special reserved box section at the ball, meet all the film favorites face to face, be present as honored guests at the film stars' banquet immediately after the ball and go to and from the ball in touring automobiles.

At this banquet only the stars and leading picture manufacturers of the country will be present.

Gaiety Theatre.

If you drifted into the Gaiety Theatre this week you would never dream you were looking at a burlesque show. The costumes, scenery and methods of the performers are just as much like the highest class musical comedy that can be secured. The show is Joe Hurtig's Social Maids, headed by Stone and Pillard.

Mr. Hurtig in equipping this production has excelled all of his previous efforts. Stone and Pillard have established for themselves most enviable reputations for originality and versatility. The support includes Billy Baker, Billy Foster, Jack Pillard, Marty Seamon, Jessie Hiatt and the Jewell Sisters; they give a performance of the musical burlesque, "Busy Little Cupid," which is worthy of the best that Broadway is offering its habituees.

A Foe to Tuberculosis

The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 14, 1915), published an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitution and Health," and "They (the authors) report numbers of concrete instances in which patients gained in vitality and energy after taking Antiphlogistine."

Doctors agree that in tuberculosis lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome.

One of the constituents of Eckman's Alterative is calcium (lime), in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this, in part, is due the success in the treatment of tuberculosis—in cases which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no wholesale claims for it, but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Sold by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

BACON COMPANY SHOWS MODEL OF FAIR

Mayor and Mrs. Curley saw the great San Francisco Exposition yesterday afternoon for the second time. They saw it here in Boston, when they were the guests of the W. & A. Bacon Company, which has brought to this city the remarkable production of the grounds and buildings that has created interest in many of the great cities of the country.

It was 1:30 when the Mayor's party arrived at the Bacon store and were greeted by Horace and Augustus Bacon, John T. Connor and General Manager Fred A. Kerry, all members of the firm. After the performance they were the guests at a special luncheon in the dining hall.

Both the Mayor and Mrs. Curley were greatly pleased with the exposition reproduction, and were particularly able to appreciate its marvelous accuracy because it is only a few months since they were themselves in San Francisco.

WORKING MODEL OF FAIR.

The picturegram is not a photograph or a drawing. It is a sort of working model of the exposition and its surroundings. Every touch of coloring is accurate and has met with the approval of Jules Guerin, the noted artist, who is responsible for the color scheme of the exposition grounds. Edward J. Austin, a well-known American artist, did the color work of the reproduction.

The electrical devices which control the workings of the picturegram are the inventions of R. A. Gates, electrical director for the Seeing America First Production Company, which is responsible for the creation of the exhibit. Mr. Gates is also the lecturer.

When first shown, the exposition grounds and the beautiful Bay of San Francisco, with the Golden Gate and the charming California mountains standing out in the distance are bathed in the full Summer sunlight. Auto busses and trains rove about the grounds and ships sail the bay.

WONDERFUL SUNSET.

Then comes the wonderful sunset of the Golden Gate, reproduced by electrical effects. With dusk comes the illumination of the grounds and buildings. Searchlights touch up the Tower of Jewels, making it shine out brightly in the dark sky.

The lights are turned off at 11. The exposition is in darkness; but in the sky are a myriad of stars, and the distant lights of Oakland and the lighthouses that dot the bay send out the distant twinkles. When the sun comes round to the east to bring another day it is to find the great Pacific battleship fleet steaming into the roadstead.

During teh exhibition, which is to be given at half-hour intervals during the next two weeks, Mr. Gates will point out the various points of interest at the big fair.

THIS TIME JOHNNY HARVEY IS VICTIM PICKED TO BUCK WHITE

Charley White, the busy and successful Chicago lightweight, shows in the Atlas A. A. ring again tonight. He was booked to meet Ad Wolgast, the former monarch of the 135-pound brigade, but the Michigan boy has run out, and Johnny Harvey, one of New York's newest ring sensations, a youth whom quite a few shrewd fistic experts claim is a ringster of rare ability, has been booked to take the White whipping and pocket the lesser end of the purse.

It's twelve-fifty, meaning twelve hundred and fifty perfectly good Boston dollars, that Master White generally receives when he shows in Boston. Nor is the Chicago Hebrew overpaid, as he packs 'em in at the Atlas A. A. just as Leach Cross did for so many years over in Gotham town.

What's better, White always puts a rought and rugged, clearly honest roposition. Up against it but once at the Atlas, that occasion being when he ran smack a tartar in the ever-willing, but rank in-and-outer, Milburn (Young) Saylor, who slipped him his decisive a thrashing as a Class A ring boy ever received, the Nate Lewis entrant didn't even disappoint that night.

ROCHE GOOD TO WHITE.

He took his beating in a manly way, as Mr. H. Hoche of New York, who never did like to see a champion slip, came to his rescue and rendered a draw verdict.

Incidentally, it can be said right here that White and Milburn will fight over again at the Atlas A. A. on the evening of November 2.

Harvey is a clean-cut boy. He has been forging to the fore in pugdom with a rattle of late months, and it's even money at least that he will last longer and fare better tonight against the hatcheting White than Messrs. Yelle, Thomas, Gallant and Baldwin, four youths who got theirs good and plenty when going on with the woozy Westerner.

IN RE JAMES HARVEY.

The big things in Harvey's record are a win over Matty Baldwin, gained a few months back at New Haven; two ten-round set-tos with Johnny Griffiths, the speedy Akron, O., lightweight, a rare good fighting machine who is carded to make his Boston bow early in the Winter, and a ten-round skirmish with Joe Rivers, the once-upon-a-time stiff-ish Mexican, who for the past eighteen months or so has been boxing wholly on his old reputation.

There is little, if any, betting on tonight's mixup. On all sides a White win is expected; in fact, most of the smart boys are looking for a knock-out. Naturally, Harvey avers that he isn't going to be soft plucking for White. Far be it. His defense he will be in the thick of the going all the way, and that when the bout is over Boston's boxing lovers will have him rated a live wire.

YEP; WHAT THEY ALL SAY.

That's the usual morning chatter of a main bout scrapper. They always talk that way. Harvey's middle name, they say, is pluck, and that should help a lot in the success of the evening's entertainment, providing he does not leave the moniker in his dressing room when he ofttmbs through the ropes.

George Alger, the good-looking Cambridge lad, hooks up with Walter Butler, the Beachmont product, in the semi wind-up. It bids fair proving a slashing little set-to.

Mike Crowley of Malden, who has lasted at a 1:00 gait since turning professional, meets Gus Murphy of Cambridge in the second preliminary event. This will be Crowley's fourth appearance as a money-getter, and, unless Gus is a leap better boy than figured Mike should make it five straight.

Harvard After Matty to Coach Baseball Nine

Harvard is seeking to sign up Christy Mathewson, the noted pitcher of the New York Giants, as varsity baseball coach.

When Matty was in town last week, "covering" the World's Series contests for a newspaper syndicate, he had a conference with the Harvard solons and another meeting between the interested parties took place later in the week in New York.

Mathewson may have been unable to agree on terms in dollars and cents; might not want to spend as much time at Cambridge as Harvard men think he should; or may be of the opinion that he should have supreme power and work out the destinies of the nine without outside interference. Anyhow, he has not yet accepted the proffered offer.

Matty is preparing for a big comeback next Spring, and may have wanted to enter an agreement that he could get off before the college season closes, so as to join the Giants.

Owner of Brookfeds Has Sudden Ending

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Robert B. Ward, the millionaire bread manufacturer, president of the Brooklyn (Federal League) club and vice-president and one of the heavyweights of the Federal League, is dead at his home at New Rochelle after a brief illness. He was sixty-three years old.

Mr. Ward went behind the Federal League in the Winter of 1913 and his baseball venture is reported to have cost him fully $250,000. He also financed the Colonial League the past Summer and figured another poor investment. The deceased was survived by his widow and nine children, five of them sons.

Felton Keeps It Up and Scores Again

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19.—Felton, the Boston entrant in the Interstate Three-Cushion Billiard League, started his Western tour by defeating Lamothe, the Cincinnati star, 50 to 48. The two players were well matched throughout.

Lamothe uncorked the night run, a cleverly gathered 7. Felton's best count was 5.

Ring Results.

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 19.—Frankie Mack, of Beachmont clearly lasted Harry Condon of New York to their limit of ten rounds at the Star Theatre here tonight.

ALBANY, Oct. 19.—K. O. Sweeney of New York gained a draw with Joe Choyo of Glenville in a ten-round bout here tonight. This was Choyo's first appearance in the ring.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19.—Harry Greb had the better of George Chip, who is the lightest heavyweight of note in their six-round skirmish at Duquesne Garden.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 19.—Harry Carlson of Brockton knocked out Jack Curtis, a local boy, in the second round at the Lenox A. C. Curtis was carried from the ring.

DENVER, Oct. 19.—Sam Langford, the Boston Tar Baby, though outweighed fully pounds by Jim Johnson, billed as the Tennessee Giant, was decisively outpointed in their ten-round battle here. Langford, though forced in the fourteenth round, clearly outpointed and outfought Johnson.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19.—Nicolo Mitchell, the Milwaukee lightweight, clearly bested Joe Azzerdo, the Californian Portugese, after ten rounds of spirited milling. It was a slugfest throughout, with Mitchell having the best of the going.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—George Rodel, the Bear, knocked out Jack Hanlon in the third round of their bout at the Military A. C. in Brooklyn.

Shubert Too Speedy for Navy Champion

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 19.—Al Shubert of New Bedford, the New England featherweight champion, won a hard-fought fight from Willie Brown, the Navy featherweight king, before the Twentieth Century A. C. at Eagles' Hall. Shubert finished the ten-round battle fighting aggressively and forced Brown to pull a defensive battle throughout.

Young Josie of North Adams and "Kid" Casey of Hoosac Falls, N. Y., fought six rounds, with Josie the aggressor. Mike McTigue of New York and Noah Brusso have been booked for the show November 5.

Tonry in at Full in Battle with Tufts

Boston College has two hard gridiron battles to fight in quick succession. This Saturday Tufts will be met, and while the Medford team is the annual game with Holy Cross goes on. This is the first time Boston College has met Tufts in football, but is hoped to repeat on the gridiron last Spring's decisive baseball victory.

Coach Mahoney put the squad through a good, stiff drill, and all the varsity men showed up well. Steve Fitzgerald was moved from fullback to left tackle, wher his weight should prove a big help.

"Babe" Tonry is showing at fullback to left tackle, where his weight in the absence of Vin Murray at center, owing to a broken hand, "Didie" Falvey, a freshman, was tried out in the Maine game last Saturday. The youngster put up a rapid performance.

Hobby and Evers in Big Baseball Party

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The baseball tourists are Coastward bound today. The All-Americans and All-Nationals, with Frank Bancroft, Cubs business manager of the Cincinnati club, handling the finances, will perform in all the important Western cities while en route to the San Francisco Exposition and will keep busy until November 2.

Hoblitzell, Cady, Evers and Magee from Manager Pat Moran of the Phillies to accompany the National League champions on their Spring training trip. Monte Cross, formerly shortstop of the Athletics, or Ben Houser will be appointed Mathe's baseball coach.

Ted Lewis Keeps It Up.

Janvrin Fanned by Harvard Cub Hurler

Hal Janvrin of the Red Sox; Harry Martin, a former Athletic pitcher; Joe Connelly of the Washington Senators, and "Chick" McLaughlin, manager of the Keane, N. H. (Twin State League), club, were among the players who composed the Pilgrim team which defeated the Harvard Rovers, 5 to 2.

Janvrin, much to the surprise of himself and Garrett, one of Harvard's cub pitchers, fanned on three successive balls. The same teams meet again on Soldiers Field Friday.

Moran After Maine Star.

ORONO, Me., Oct. 19.—Captain-elect Otis C. Story of the University of Maine nine is in receipt of an offer from Manager Pat Moran of the Phillies to accompany the National League champions on their Spring training trip. Monte Cross, formerly shortstop of the Athletics, or Ben Houser will be appointed Maine's baseball coach.

Ted Lewis Keeps It Up.

B. CARRIGAN HAD RIGHT HUNCH ON LEWIS

On the eve of the World's Series one of the "Royal Rooters," while in a fanfest with Bill Carrigan, the Red Sox's successful skipper, in the rotunda of the Adams Hotel in Philadelphia, remarked that Tris Speaker and Harry Hooper were two of the game's starriest outfielders.

"Didn't you overlook somebody? Duffy Lewis shines right with Speaker and Hooper," was Carrigan's prompt rejoinder.

"Yes, Duffy's all right, but if you left it to a vote of the Boston 'fans' you would find that Tris and Harry are considered far better all-round performers than Duffy," murmured the R. R.

"Rubbish! We have the best outfield in baseball, and Lewis is equally as valuable as either of his two illustrious associates," stated Carrigan. "He may not look as skilled as a fan as Speaker or Hooper in the Fenway Park garden, owing to the limited amount of space he is permitted to cover, but what outfielder could play that trick Lewis does better? There isn't one in the game.

HANDICAPPED AT HOME.

"On the road Lewis receives just as many press notices as Speaker or Hooper for his wonderful fielding, though I will admit that in that cramped-up corner at Fenway Park he is not given a chance to shine. However, I value him equally as highly as Speaker or Hooper. You fellows should see him work on a roomy lot and then you would find out what a brilliant defensive player he is."

Lewis got his chance to show before the "Royal Rooters" on spacious grounds when the Big Show was on. His station on the Philliter park was far roomier than Hooper's and practically as deep as Speaker's. In the battles at Braves Field Lewis likewise had plenty of space and was thus able to show his speed and cleverness.

It is now ancient history that Lewis' outfield play was equally as great as his batting in the five earties with the Phillies; in fact, he pulled off more "circus" stuff in the meadows than Speaker or Hooper, or any of the three Philadelphia suburbanites, for that matter.

LEWIS SHOWED 'EM.

Nor was it any fluke performance, or a succession of fluke performances. For the ninth series, on the roomy lots in Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Washington, Philadelphia and the other parks around the Johnsonian circuit, he has always been rated with the same stars on the defense.

Necessarily, Duffy must play trick ball in that narrow, cubby lot garden when operating at Fenway Park. But when he has the space he's there with the best of them.

Two mighty mobs of not a whole lot under 60,000 each, paid off several catches far out of the ordinary on Braves Field in last week's bristling battles with the clan of Mahon; in fact, "Dutch" Leonard and Ernie Shore, though the latter is one of two particularly port pitching performances, would probably have come to grief if Lewis had not backed them up in such glistening style.

Almost $50,000 Paid Back.

To date $46,630 has been returned of the $48,000 received for tickets for the third World's Series game at Braves Field, the game that was not played. The "fans" are now doing their collecting at the Federal Trust Company.

Dillon and Levinsky Sought.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 19.—Jack Dillon and "Battling" Levinsky are wanted for a 20-round bout here November 7.

American's Expert Picks Yamada to Defeat Hoppe

By ROY H. BOOTH,
American's Billiard Expert.

Koji Yamada is my pick for victory over Willie Hoppe in their 14.1 balkline match for the championship which starts tomorrow night at Convention Hall. Yamada is in a class by himself in the execution of masse shots. It is because of his ability in this style of play that I am "crowning" the big bulk of the critics and billiard lovers and picking Yamada to defeat Hoppe.

KOJI YAMADA IS PICKED BY BOOTH

William F. (Willie) Hoppe, the world's champion, and Koji Yamada, the phenomenal cueist from Japan, begin their match for the 14.1 balkline title tomorrow night. The scene of their encounter is Convention Hall. The Hoppe-Yamada match is at 2,500 points, divided into three blocks, with the play being continued Thursday and Friday nights.

If there ever was a champion in any line of sport who shrinks from talking about himself or his game, that individual is Willie Hoppe. Occasionally he will break out and speak changes in style of play and matters along those lines but not of himself or his victories. One rather surprising thing that he remarks is concerning the number of men who at different times have asked him to explain what the term 14.1 balkline means.

Hoppe even had one man ask him whether it meant that the player was not allowed to count more than fourteen times in one inning. Another man told him he understood what the balkline meant, but always supposed 14.1 meant there was a line drawn on the table fourteen and one-tenth inches from the rails.

The famous billardist has explained to many, therefore, that 14.1 means that white chalk lines are drawn on the table fourteen inches out from each rail, all the way up and down the table as well as across.

The figure one in 14.1 means that each player is allowed one shot in balk; that is, when the opponent's ball and the red ball are both inside the 14-inch balk line, one of the two balls has to be driven across one of the 14-inch lines on every shot. This fact makes it more difficult to nurse the balk, they having to be driven so frequently.

COFFEY WEE BIT BETTER THAN MORAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Betting on the Coffey-Moran fight is at evens. The advance sale, $9,000, assures the bunney "house" of late years.

By DAMON RUNYON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—James Coffey, the Irish giant, made a poor fight on the occasion of his last appearance in a New York ring—a very poor fight indeed. It is true he won, or at least he was given general discredit for winning; but he made a poor fight, nevertheless.

He battered old Jim Flynn down at Brighton Beach until Jim's manager, Jack Curley, tossed a towel into the ring, though many spectators believe to this day that Jim could easily have lasted out the fight without suffering any material damage.

HARD SCRAP TO DOPE.

Tonight J. Coffey meets Frank Moran at Madison Square Garden, and unless Coffey makes a much better fight than he made against Jim Flynn he is probably in for a thundering licking.

We do not esteem Moran any particular marvel; in fact, we rather favor Coffey's chances against him, but Moran is easily a hundred per cent. above Coffey's form on the night the Irishman let Flynn buffet his head back and forth along the ropes at Brighton.

Unless they have changed Coffey's style of fighting, he probably still is the same rushing, slam-bang sort; a big, young, powerful puncher, with a sufficient heart, despite the insinuations of his detractors, but with a most insufficient jaw.

COFFEY NO SLOUCH.

His handlers have brought him along a little too slowly and carefully, and he has had to acquire most of his knowledge of the fighting game in the training quarters instead of the ring; so he is lacking in experience, and that is the one asset of his opponent, but Coffey has about everything else.

It is quite likely that the winner of the scrap will be matched with Jess Willard—not that the winner of a Moran-Coffey fight has any more right to be matched for a battle with the champion than half a dozen other heavyweights drifting about the horizon, but because the match is cooking.

Morning Talkfests with Moran and Irish Giant

By FRANK MORAN.

I am going to win by a knockout. I am sure I can out-sling Coffey, and there is no chance of Jim stopping me. I took everything Jack Johnson had for twenty rounds and was winning at the finish of our fight in France. I will win and then I want Jess Willard to recognize me and sign articles.

By JIM COFFEY.

I know all there is to know about Moran and am confident I will defeat him. It takes more than some speed to win a ten-round fight. I am confident as to the result; positive that I will be the winner. New York "sports" won't know me when I climb through the ropes tonight. I admit I was slow and awkward in my last big fight here.

O. B. HAS THREE CLUBS FOR SALE

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Three National League clubs—the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds—are for sale. This big bit of news, which comes from a high source, reached New York late yesterday afternoon and is the subject of a lot of talk in baseball circles.

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh club, it is said, does not fancy suffering any further baseball losses, and if some one with a nice bankroll offers him a good price he will part with his Pirates.

The Cardinals' owners are said to want $500,000 for franchise, players, stands and all things connected with the club, but will accept less.

The Cub owners, who demanded around $500,000 for the club less than two years ago, probably would take $500,000 and feel lucky.

The Fleischmann people, back of the Reds, have grown tired of losses year after year, and an offer of $600,000 probably would be clutched at with eagerness.

Stein Will Wrestle Lemle.

Hugo Stein, one of the big grapplers who took part in the international tournament in New York last Spring, has been selected to meet Karl Lemle, the crack Bohemian wrestler, in a finish match at the Howard Thursday night. Stein comes with a big reputation as a rugged and clever wrestler.

PARSON REJOINS HARVARD SQUAD

By SYDE LYNES.

Matters are breaking better for the Harvard eleven. Now comes the announcement that by the end of the week, barring new injuries to players, the Crimson hospital squad, with the possible exception of Tom Kinwright, will be barren of members. Better still, Halfback McKinlock and Tackle Parson will in all probability start the game with Cornell on Saturday. Parson began the week by taking a light workout against the varsity, while McKinlock looked on from the sidelines.

The work today promises to be hard and thorough. The game with Virginia was of the greatest value to the Crimson eleven, not only because of the excellent practice it gave the players, but because it laid bare those small weaknesses which, if allowed to linger, would destroy the efficiency of the Cambridge machine.

In the scrimmage today it was planned to give every man a thorough drill by the rough-and-tumble method, with the particular object of strengthening the offence, which at times against Virginia weakened at the crucial moment.

Harvard must enter the game against Cornell with some other scoring weapon than the right boot of Captain Mahan. To our mind, the Cornell game is going to be a harder proposition than that with Virginia. The hard work laid out for the Crimson is ample proof that no mistakes are being made as to the relative strength of Harvard and Cornell.

WATSON REJOINS SQUAD.

Other convalescents who appeared on the field were Coolidge and Thacher, the end rush and halfback respectively, while it was stated that Boles, Norwesen and Liken would be back in the thick of the fray tomorrow. Watson made his first appearance for some time at his old post at quarter in the light scrimmage which took place between the varsity and the scrubs, and seemed to be in pretty good shape.

There does not appear to be much chance that Watson, although the senior veteran quarter, as it were, on the Harvard squad, will be able to beat Willcox out for the position. At present writing there are just grounds for saying that Willcox has all the big burden off the shoulders of Head Coach Haughton by solving the quarterback problem.

Harvard has, in a way, been distinctly unfortunate in late years in having quarters who played but one season. Practically ever since Haughton has been in charge, it has been the same old story each season, the developing of a new quarter.

This early season skirmish for a field general, an ailment now perennial at Cambridge, has contributed its share in holding back the development of the team. If Willcox maintains the stride he has apparently hit, and cures himself of his tendency to fumble, he ought to land the pivotal position. He is much faster than Watson, is rangier in every sense, and, despite Watson's greater experience at the position, Willcox shows better judgment in the selection of his plays.

OLD STARS HELPING OUT.

A good part of the afternoon drill, prior to the engagement between the varsity and the scrubs, more technically known as Team B, was devoted to individual and squad work. The backs and ends did their share of kicking and running down under the ball, while Coaches Fennock and Storer showed the linemen some of the tricks that made them famous in their days at Cambridge.

Most of the candidates need a lot of just such work. There is plenty of good material, but the majority of the linemen either do not know just how to put into execution the things they have learned, or are not sufficiently grounded in the fundamentals of the game to permit them to make the most of their physical prowess.

In the scrimmage particular attention was paid to the development of the offence on one or two special types of play. For instance, Harvard developed a weakness in the forward pass against Virginia which had hitherto not been noticeable.

RAY COLLINS IS EXPECTING A TRADE

Ray Collins, the Red Sox's veteran southpaw, is evidently of the opinion that he is going to be cast adrift by Manager Carrigan during the Winter, for when leaving for his Vermont home after the World's Series games he stated to his friends that he didn't expect to be back next Spring.

Not only did Collins have a bad year, but as a result of being idle the last three months of the campaign he put on a lot of embonpoint and it is extremely doubtful if he will ever be able to get down to his old playing notch.

CENTRE SEMMENS IS TIGER CRIPPLE

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 19.—Princeton has gone to work preparing for the Dartmouth game Saturday. This afternoon's workout will be devoted to an effort on the part of Coach Rush to remove from the minds of his charges any confidence that may have resulted from the large score of the Lafayette game.

Yesterday's practice was the most disappointing of the season. With nearly all of the stars taking part in the scrimmage, the regulars required very nearly half an hour, with continued possession of the ball, to score on the second team. The offensive power of the line was at a low ebb, and very seldom could the backs get their plays well started before some ambitious sub nailed him.

Secret practice consisted almost entirely of the usual interference drills, with the rehearsing of a few plays included. Kicking came in for a share of attention and the final hour was devoted to scrimmage.

It was a blue Monday in regard to more things than the play. Semmens, looked upon as the best centre at Princeton, slipped and limped to the fieldhouse for an indefinite rest. Bob Nourse, regular guard, was kept from the field by laboratory work, his place being taken by Love, while Kaufmann, the regular tackle, had a rest. With Captain Glick at quarterback, Shet, Tibbott and Driggs composed the backfield.

Cornell Line Is to Average 192 Pounds

ITHACA, Oct. 19.—Tackles Bailey and Welles are Cornell's only two varsity players not physically fit for Saturday's game with Harvard in Cambridge. Jameson and Gillies are being drilled to go in, if the two regulars are not able to last the full route. Both players are almost as adept as the regulars and the Cornell line will not be crippled should the change be found necessary.

The coaches expect to send a rush line against the Crimson weighing 192 pounds from end to end. Centre Cool, a 168-pounder, is the only "little fellow." The Cornell eleven, with coaches, trainers and "rooters," leaves for Boston Thursday night.

Penn's Star Tackle on Disabled Squad

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—The University of Pennsylvania coaches ordered a light practice on Franklin Field. Several new plays are to be polished up for the hard game with Pittsburgh next Saturday.

The only man hurt in the game with the Navy last Saturday was Mathews, the best tackle on the team. He had a rib broken and will not be able to play against Pittsburgh. Neill was shifted to tackle and Dorizas swung into Neill's post at guard.

Connie Writes Peter and Tells Him She Feels He Ought to Be Free

CHAPTER XXVI.

OUT in the eastern sky soft color was coming to gladden the world. Somehow that added to my pain. There is something so inexorable about the way the world goes on and nature renews herself each morning. That may give consolation to saint or philosopher, but to a suffering woman it means an added feeling of not counting much in the scheme of things. Grayer than ever looked my own life as I contrasted it with the young roses of morning. At last I turned my eyes away from the glory that hurt and blinded them and wrote my little "hail and farewell" to the man I loved.

Peter dear:

"Away from you and looking at our lives in perspective it comes to me that I am not and never have been the wife for you. I haven't understood your work—or tried to. I haven't even understood you. I think a woman ought to be sweetheart and comrade and almost mother to the man she marries. I don't see that I have been any of these.

I was so busy being a spoiled child and feeling hurt because you were too busy to understand my whims and notions that it never occurred to me to try to understand you. I'm sorry, now that it's too late.

"Please, please, don't let any of this spoil your life. You can make it very wonderful if you only will. After we have thought up a way to get our divorce you must turn to the woman who will give you the understanding and comradeship you need.

"Dear, may I venture one word of advice? Don't let beauty blind you to the fact that there is one woman in the world for you—The One Woman.

"She will be good to my babies—and so I'll be contented when they are with you half the year. "If I stay in Chicago isn't there some way you can divorce me for desertion. Of course, we don't want scandal because of Petrokin and Dorothy. You think of the way—the wisest way. I don't want to bear the reproach of having spoiled your life, however much I've hurt the five years I was in it.

"Good-bye,

"CONNIE."

I got into my clothes and stole down to post the letter. Peter would get it by noon of the next day—and whatever it meant to me I knew it must mean new life to him.

Monday is a day I shall never forget. After I had mailed my letter of farewell to my husband, I dragged through a weary hour before the family was awake and ready before breakfast. When we were finally gathered at the table the radiance on Betty's face and the proud content on Jim's were so warming that they seemed to banish even mother's grief for Mabel.

Supremely happy people have a way of holding the centre of the stage with the consent of all concerned. Betty was quiet and almost awe-struck in the presence of her happiness. But even if she remembered Mabel's death and her part in it, even if she thought of Harvey Blake's lameness and her share in that, life was offering her promise of supreme satisfaction in the only thing that counted—Jim's love.

"We had a wonderful telegram from Peter last night, Connie," said Jim. "He seemed about the most surprised chap on the face of the earth. This is the first time I've ever put one over on my old pal, Betty and I have decided to be married right away. I want to take the little girl for a cruise on the Betty E. before cold weather sets in, so you'd better stay here until the event takes place. And you might try your hand at persuading Peter to hand his patients over to Messenger for a few days and come on to fulfill his job as best man. Think you can do it?"

(The next instalment of this serial will appear on this Page on Thursday.

Foibles of the Great

Goethe Loved Serpents and Calvin Played Dice

GREAT men as well as small ones have their pastimes and their fortes.

The victor of Waterloo and the hero he defeated were fond of children. Wellington was a general favorite with the young, took part in their amusements, and often delighted them with small keepsakes. The great Emperor doted on his only child, the young King of Rome, and was never weary of amusing him.

Racine is said to have taken part in many of his children's sports, even dressing up to make a figure in their processions. Rebellion found relaxation from his studies by gathering girls and boys around him and encouraging their frolics.

Among distinguished Romans Cato, the censor; Cicero and the Emperor Augustus were specially fond of the company of children. Henri Quatre was once discovered by an ambassador crawling on all-fours with the little Dauphin on his back.

The later years of Mr. Gladstone were brightened by that merry play-fellow, his grandchild, Dorothy.

It is a common thing for many people, wise and otherwise, to make friends and playmates of dogs and cats, and the epitaph written by Lord Byron on his dog's tombstone commemorates a poet's love for a canine friend.

The poet Goethe and the Roman Emperor Tiberius are both recorded as having been devoted to tame serpents, while Richter was intensely fond of a tame tree frog and a huge spider, for the latter of which the philosopher assiduously collected flies. Reinhardt had a pet chimpanzee, on the death of which he was so grieved that he had himself painting the creature's likeness into a portrait group upon which he was working, much to the disgust of a noble patron.

Cardinal Mazarin, the great minister of Louis XIII., also had a pet monkey, but another statesman-cardinal, his famous master, Richelieu, preferred a collection of cats. Cowper's three hares, Puss, Tiny and Bess, are of course ever to be remembered in this connection. Concerning one of these the melancholy poet writes:

"I love him for his humor's sake;
For oft he will play bopkills
My heart of thoughts that made it ache
And force it to a smile."

Calvin played with dice, Luther and Boileau at skittles, while the sage-scientist Boyle did not mind getting wet through while witnessing a Punch and Judy show.

Tasso, the Italian poet, dearly loved to puzzle his acquaintances at a masquerade; Massilion, the French preacher, used to assemble his followers to play cheerfully as a safety-valve against more strenuous contests. The delight of Charlemagne was to engage in swimming matches with the princes, courtiers and others, the Emperor himself usually bearing off the palm. The less innocent diversion of card playing has engrossed many monarchs but few sages.

Shakespeare is by no means alone among poets in singing the praises of music, thus proving it to have power over other than "savage breasts." The ancient Greeks encouraged its study because they thought it promoted a love of order and harmony, while famous men, such as their great Epaminondas, were proud to sing at public festivals, while the grave Socrates delighted in the dance.

Martin Luther and Frederick the Great were both wont to calm their disturbed minds with playing the flute. Milton was also a practical musician, but a composer of sacred music. Like the philosopher Bentham, he delighted in playing the organ, while Gainsborough, the painter, was a really excellent performer on the violin, with which he often solaced his leisure.

Soft, Curly, Wavy Hair Now Easy to Have

(Women's Realm.)

Beautiful, fluffy, natural-looking curls or waves, which everyone admires, and curling iron are now possible for every woman. You can do only possible, but very easily acquired over night, and with benefit to the life and health of the hair. It is only necessary to apply a little liquid silmerine, brush and arrange into a clean tooth brush for the purpose, drawing this down the full length of the tresses from root to tip. In the morning the hair will have a most delightful fluffiness and lustre, without the least suggestion of grease or stickiness, and will be quite controllable, no matter how thick hair is done up.

As liquid silmerine is procurable at any drug store and as a few ounces of it will last for months, no woman need put up with that flat, lank, lifeless appearance of the hair which gives such an unbecoming look of plainness to many women.—Advertisement.

Crushing

Augustine Blubbod was always talking about his ancestors. According to him one of them was never such a family tree as his.

One day he was bragging before a party at a country house, among his listeners being a blunt old farmer.

"Young man," said the old chap, "you put me in mind of my potato patch.

Augustine was interested to know where he was like a field of potatoes, although his dignity was rather hurt by the simile.

"How's that?" he asked.

"Well, the likeliest part of you seems to be underground," was the retort.

EMPRESS EUGENIE would have felt at home in this simple bodice with sloping shoulders. Yellow taffeta is combined with deep blue ribbon headed by platting of taffeta on the very full skirt. Blue ribbon forms the sleeves and rips of blue pearls are festooned in an unusual way on the bodice of this Paquin model.

REDDISH brown striped silk is here trimmed by Paquin with black panne velvet on the collar, tapering on to a set piece of yellow deerskin. This is outlined in panne and embroidered in black. Belt and cuffs are of deerskin, and the skirt trimming is of black velvet and embroidery.

The New and the Old in War

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE war in Europe is almost a amazing in the character of the weapons and the nature of the fields with which and on which it will be conducted as is the insane suddenness and violence of its outbreak.

A new battlefield, the sky, "the central blue" of Tennyson's prophetic poem, has been added to the two which already existed from time immemorial, and now, in full truth, we shall see the wondrous spectacle of "the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunder storm!"

But the old battlefields, the land and the sea, have themselves, been so far transformed since the last previous struggle between the great powers of the world that they, too, wear a new and increasingly terrible aspect.

LIKE CHARIOT RUSH

Napoleon would not recognize the modern army of invasion. For his slow-firing field guns have been substituted quick-firing cannon, that spit their projectiles at the rate of hundreds to the minute; for his antique musket we see machine guns, whose swarms of bullets plough the air like hail; instead of his stumbling and snorting horses, swift bicycles and speeding automobiles, with locomotive speed, carry dispatch bearers, and enable commanding officers to fly from point to point on the battlefield.

What a picture for the imagination is furnished by the statement that the advance of the German army to Liege was preceded by thirty-five large automobiles full of officers, and attended by a whirring corps of motorcyclists! It was like the rush of Persian chariots in the day of Darius—only the chariots have been transformed into automatic machine-demons, as powerful as a hundred horses and as swift as the wind!

And what would Napoleon have said to the armored trains, carrying quick-firing guns?

A WONDERFUL ADVANCE

But England's "sea dog," Nelson, would be not a whit less astonished at the spectacle of the sea fights of today. In his time every man had done his duty when he sank beneath the waves, or sent his enemy there, but now the fight goes on under the sea as well as upon its surface. Torpedo boats darting forty miles an hour to implant their explosive barbs in the flank of the whale-bellied warships; submarines shooting, invisible, under the sea like sharks of war, which rise only to set their cruel teeth in a victim; searchlights sweeping and piercing through the night over the dark floor of the ocean, as if monsters with burning eyes had come up out of the depths and were seeking one another in a fury of mingled blood-thirst and terror; shells hundreds of pounds and capable of blowing a thousand men to death, hurled five or even ten miles through the air, and yet too often attaining their aim. Such things as these would make a returning Nelson think that he had arrived in a world gone mad, stung by the scorpion of slaughter.

But neither Napoleon nor Nelson could have foreseen the extension of the stage of war to the air over their heads. All eyes in a marching army and in a cruising ship must now be fixed aloft, on the watch for the new hornets of war.

Forts, towns, magazines, fleets, all are subject to attack from overhead. Think of the feelings of the inhabitants of a city when a dirigible sails high above their roofs and launches a bomb down upon them!

The German Zeppelins and the French aeroplanes have already met, and one of the most absorbing questions to be settled by this war is whether the swift mechanical air gliders or the slower and more cumbrous dirigible balloons will prove to be the best fighters.

In the first encounter of the war, according to reports, the aeroplane proved its superiority by destroying its Zep adversary, although its own existence was sacrificed. But the aeroplane carried one life and the Zeppelin twenty-five.

MUST END WAR

The stage of aerial warfare is like an outdoor theatre. The spectacle can be watched from miles away. Consider the scene that was presented to the inhabitants of a town in Belgium, who saw three German war balloons passing in the air overhead on their way to France! The old Greek imagination would have beheld Mars and his port in that scene! The ways of the air are open like the sea. Will there ever be a "three-mile limit" fixed to the atmosphere within which fighting straiting must not venture over a neutral territory! And if such a limit is fixed do recent events indicate that the "war lords" will pay any attention to it?

One single good thought is suggested by this extension of the fields of war and this multiplication of its destructive energies. It is a thought that instinctively occurs to millions today. "This must be the end of war!" It is an apocalyptic vision. It makes us all recall what all have read with wondering as to the meaning:

"Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall come forth to deceive the nations which are in the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, together then together to the war, the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. And they went up over the breadth of the earth * * * and fire came down out of heaven and devoured them. And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone!"

The Agony of Skin Troubles

No tongue can tell the amount of agony endured by people suffering from skin troubles. Many of them have said they would give any amount of money to be free from the ceaseless and tormenting irritation of their skin. Some of these people have spent many dollars on medicines, ointments, etc., in vain seeking a cure. Since the compounding by a chemist of Cadum ointment, the various forms of skin trouble have been robbed of their terrors. This wonderful remedy stops the burning and itching irritation at once, and quickly relieves all skin troubles. Get a trial box of any druggist for 10c.—Advertisement.

Teach Girls a Trade

Women Should Not Find Themselves Helpless If Thrown on Own Resources

By DOROTHY DIX

THE school year is now in full swing and hundreds of thousands of girls have resumed the pursuit of what they are pleased to call their education.

For the most part, this is mere fub-dub, a smattering of this and a smattering of that, a glimpse of mathematics, a glance at literature, a dab of art, a stab at music, and not enough of any one to be of the slightest assistance if the girl ever needs to call upon it for help.

For the average girl's education may best be described in the words of the popular ditty which declared, "I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way." Nobody knows which way a girl is going, or in what direction she is headed, and so she is given a sort of hit or miss education that her optimistic parents fondly believe will fit her for anything, and that in reality fits her for nothing.

There is no other individual in the world who gets such a cruel deal in life as the daughter of the well-to-do American family. Her parents simply gamble with her fate.

They have no fortune to settle upon her; no dowry to give her when she marries that would secure her financial independence if her marriage proved disastrous; not a dollar to give her if she does not marry; not a penny to stand between her and want if the father dies, or becomes disabled, but they do not make her self-supporting.

HER ONE CHANCE

Thousands of dollars are thrown away on the girl's education, but she is not taught one single thing thoroughly enough to make of it a marketable commodity. Nobody thinks it worth while to teach her a trade by which she can support herself if it becomes necessary.

Her parents have banked everything on the one chance of her getting married and acquiring a husband who would be able to keep her in pink cotton the balance of her life. Now catching a husband is by no means as easy as it sounds, and it grows more and more difficult year by year.

Besides, husbands lose their money, or their jobs, only too often. Sometimes they turn out to be drunkards or dastards with whom no woman can live. Frequently they die, leaving their wives nothing but a house full of children.

Then the woman who has been given nothing but an omelet souffle education has a right to rise up and curse her parents whose folly is responsible for her utter despair and desolation. If she had been trained to any trade or profession she could turn her hand to it again, and her loss would be merely a misfortune instead of the overwhelming disaster that it is.

Of course, when you talk to mothers and fathers about having their daughters taught some occupation by which they can make a living, they always reply that about the time you get a girl fitted for a career and, have spent a small fortune in preparing her for it, she ups and marries. This may be true in many cases, but the special training is not thrown away, as the parents seem to think. All education is broadening, and makes for human happiness and usefulness, because it opens new doors to the individual.

ANCHOR TO WINDWARD

Moreover, whether the woman who has fitted herself to be a lawyer or a doctor practices her profession or not, she has not only a source of constant joy in the wider knowledge she possesses, but she has the solid satisfaction of knowing that she has an anchor to the windward. She could support herself if her husband died or deserted her. She would not have to continue living with him under conditions that make marriage a purgatory, as so many women do, because her husband is her meal ticket, and she would starve without him.

There are many professions and trades to which a girl may be trained by which she can earn a good living if need be, and which will add to her efficiency as a wife and mother if she doesn't need to support herself. The woman who is a fine musician, or a competent artist, can find daily scope for her talents in her home. So can the teacher and the kindergartner.

The girl who is a graduate of a business college can run her household accounts with more system than the woman who can't add up the grocery book. The girl who can make her own hats and gowns well enough to get a job in a millinery or dressmaking establishment can dress ten times as well as the hanging amateur ever will, and the bride who is a domestic science expert will cause her husband to call down blessings on her head.

In Our Wonderful World

THOUGH not strict Hindus, the Gurkhas are superstitious. It is on record that the beautiful wife of a certain Rajoh of Nepaul contracted smallpox.

The Rajoh vowed tons of milk and butter sweetmeats to the gods if they would cure her. She recovered, but when she saw her disfigurement she killed herself.

The Rajah had all his gods set up in a row outside his walls. Opposite these he ranged his artillery. Having abused the gods and reminded them of all the milk and sweets he had given them, he ordered the guns to open fire.

Some of his senior officers, horrified at the sacrilege, rushed shrieking away, but after a few gunners had been cut down the guns opened fire and the gods were blown to bits.

All the great Sikh families owed their origin to the power of the sword. Every Sikh child tried to attend fencing schools, and every pious Sikh, no matter what their antecedents were.

Every village became a fort. The word "neighbor" meant enemy. Men tilled the soil with a matchlock across the shoulders.

* * *

The name "Vienna bread," which the Federation of Italian Bakers has decided to rechristen after Prinsta, is said to have come about in rotation with the siege of Vienna by the Turks a baker working at night near the walls was struck by the vibration of a toy drum which his little boy had left on the floor. He concluded that this was caused by the enemy picks undermining the wall. He gave the alarm, saved the city, and in reward was granted the sole privilege of baking the Vienna roll with a twist on the top.

Law and Justice

Bert Brown was a bricklayer whose even life had gone on uneventfully until one sad day he fell off a high scaffolding and had to be taken to the hospital.

Now, the scaffolding was faulty, and Brown had a good case for compensation; so, as soon as he could walk, he betook him to a lawyer and laid his case before him.

The owners of the scaffolding contested the claim, and in due course Brown and his lawyer made their way to the court, where Brown duly awarded the bruised bricklayer $100.

In great jubilation Brown returned to the lawyer's office. It was then that the man of law really got to business, for his costs amounted to $92.50. The balance he handed over to Brown, accompanied by a nice little speech.

Brown looked dazed.

"But," he at last asked; "which of us two was it who fell off that there scaffold "

How She Acquired "Feminine Charm"

A nicely-dressed woman sat beside me in the train recently, and stared at her. It was not her beauty of feature that held my attention, for her face and expression—I risked it and asked: "Would you mind telling me what keeps your complexion absolutely pure? Don't think me impertinent, but you seem over 30, yet haven't a wrinkle on your face, and your cheeks are quite peach-like."

She laughed.

Laughing like she does it—that's easy; I receive plenty of practice. Sounds shocking, doesn't it? But I do. Because I've learned a simple, inexpensive secret. Every woman has a beautiful complexion underneath, you know. Then, to wash off wrinkles I use a face bath made by dissolving powdered saxolite in some ordinary hot water. Just a teaspoonful to a pint bowl is enough. Simply moisten a soft cloth with it and gently rub your face. It's wonderful.

"Why, I'm now trying her plan and like it immensely—Millicent Brown in The Story Teller.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S BEAUTY SUGGESTIONS

Face powder simply covers up an unattractive complexion and leaves no lasting benefits. Those who have tried a simple spurmax face lotion find it much better, as it removes skin discolorations, such as freckles and tan, and makes the skin smooth, white and velvety. This lotion is made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water, then adding two tablespoonfuls glycerin. This complexion beautifier does not rub off or show like powder, and gives a more refined appearance at once. It removes both shininess and sallowness, rapidly giving the skin a permanent healthy, youthful appearance.

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be had at trifling expense by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is then ready to massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

WALSH'S WORK PRAISED BY BRANDEIS

Louis D. Brandeis, in a public statement today, sets forth the reasons why he will support Governor Walsh in the present campaign.

Mr. Brandeis' statement is a remarkable tribute to Governor Walsh's administration.

Governor Walsh deserves to be re-elected, Mr. Brandeis says, because he has materially improved the conditions of the working people and because he has restrained the secret influences of corporate wealth and special privilege.

MR. BRANDEIS' STATEMENT.

Mr. Brandeis' statement is as follows:

It is not my practice to take part in political campaigns. Such public work as I have done has been directed towards policies and measures, not to securing party victory or the success of particular men. But this year active participation in support of Governor Walsh seems to be demanded. His defeat would imperil the maintenance of policies and measures for which forward-looking men have been striving for a decade. His defeat would help pave the way for the restoration of the regime of Cannon, Penrose and Barnes.

The end for which forward-looking men have striven is this:

That the power of government shall rest in men, not money; in the many, not the few; and that the power of government shall be exercised for the benefit of all and not of the few.

Forward-looking men have sought to accomplish this:

First: By improving the condition of the working people.

Second: By curbing the power of wealth and of privilege.

TO AVERT CLASS WAR.

Forward-looking men — with statesmanlike progressiveness, which is farseeing conservatism — have sought to avert a war of classes by removing just causes of discontent. Like the great Masaini, they have by their acts declared that there shall be "no hostility to existing wealth, no wanton or unjust violation of the right of property, but a constant disposition to ameliorate the material condition of the classes less favored by fortune."

To that program Governor Walsh has proved himself true. He has shown his adhesion not but words but by deeds; not by single acts merely, but by a consistent attitude. He probably has made mistakes in detail — who would not? But his administration has been consistent with determined striving for true democracy and social justice.

Let me speak of his accomplishments in some fields of public service with which I have reason to be familiar.

SOCIAL PERFORMANCE.

Every person who has in a practical way attempted to relieve hardships and misery among the working people recognizes social insurance as a pressing need, and Governor Walsh has devoted himself to its development.

The workmen's compensation law to provide against industrial accidents has been greatly strengthened through Governor Walsh's active aid. The weekly compensation for disabled workingmen was increased from one-half to two-thirds of the weekly wage. The payment of compensation was extended from 300 weeks to 500 weeks. The maximum payment receivable was increased from $3,000 to $4,000.

All this without increased burdens upon employers; but with the result that the percentage of the insurance premium paid which now goes to the disabled employes has been doubled.

In a single year these changes have put nearly $300,000 more into the pockets of injured working people or their dependents than would have been paid in the same period if Governor Walsh had not secured the changes in the law for which he worked.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS.

Friendly foresight has been his attitude towards the public service corporations, whose administration so vitally affect the whole public. His veto secured the elimination of dangerous provisions from an otherwise desirable act in aid of the financial reorganization of the New Haven Railroad.

He gave active support to a proper bill to facilitate the effective reorganization of the Boston & Maine.

He sought to secure an investigation of telephone charges, to which the people of Massachusetts were fairly entitled.

And perhaps the best evidence of his intelligent appreciation of the needs of the community was furnished by placing upon the Public Service Commission Mr. Joseph B. Eastman, who, during long years of service as secretary of the Public Franchise League, had become specially qualified and had proved himself an able, devoted and courageous servant of the people.

No Governor of Massachusetts, be he Republican or Democrat, has been freer from the subtle influence of wealth, or has striven more conscientiously to serve all the people.

To progressive-minded men such a record gives more assurance of performance than the belated and inconclusive platform declarations of the last Republican convention.

8 CITIES SEND OUT SUFFRAGE NOTICE

Although the Boston City Council has refused to notify the 115,000 registered voters in the city that the suffrage amendment and two other amendments will be voted upon at the November election, eight cities in the State have already sent out such notices, and others are expected to do so, it was announced at suffrage headquarters today.

The cities which have already acted are New Bedford, Beverly, Newton, Holyoke, Lynn, North Adams, Somerville and Fitchburg. Cambridge is one of the large cities expected to follow suit.

In Newton a circular was addressed to every voter, giving formal notice that the three amendments—suffrage, homesteads and taxation—will be upon the ballot. In other cities, the notification takes a similar form.

Seventy-five suffrage speakers are out over the State this week, talking "votes for women." Half the number are men.

A large delegation will go to Worcester under Springfield Saturday. Worcester will celebrate the sixty-fifth anniversary of the first Woman's Suffrage convention held in the United States, in Worcester in 1851.

Springfield will have a parade.

A suffrage rally will be held in Faneuil Hall tomorrow noon, at 12:30.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires a constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear, which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease is driven to the stomach, which is equally dangerous. The following formula, which is used exclusively in the damp English climate, is a constitutional treatment, and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more humid climate conditions.

Secure from your Druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ½ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one teaspoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint is entirely harmless as it acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a slight tonic action that facilitates the recovery of the patient. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in the last hour, but prices averaged a shade below their high for the day. The advance of U. S. Steel was the feature in New York. It crossed 87 around 2 o'clock. At 2:45 gains in New York included Lackawanna Steel ¾, Steel Foundries 3¼, U. S. Steel 1¾, Bethlehem 7, Colorado Fuel 1¼, Republic Steel ⅞, N. Y. Air Brake 6, American Locomotive 2¾, Willys-Overland ⅝, Studebaker 2, Westinghouse ⅝, General Motors ⅛, Tennessee Copper ⅝, Inspiration ⅛, Kennecott ⅝, Chino ⅛, Anaconda 1, and Maryland Coal ⅛. Northern Pacific ⅛, Reading ⅜, Southern Pacific ⅛ and American Smelting ⅛.

Among declines were Allis-Chalmers ¼, American Can ⅛, Car & Foundry 1¼, General Electric ⅝, Goodrich 1, Rock Island ⅜, Atchison ¼, Canadian Pacific ⅜, N. Y. Central ⅛, New Haven ⅞, St. Paul ¾ and Union Pacific ¼.

Bethlehem, American Woolen common was up 2¾, preferred ½, Butte & Superior ¾, Oneida ¾, Greene-Cananea ⅜, and Calumet & Arizona ⅝. Shoe Machinery was off ¼ and New Haven ⅛, Copper Range ⅛, Isle Royale ½, Trinity ¼, Elevated 1 and Alaska Gold ¼.

Realization sales had more effect later in the afternoon. Near the close there was a recessional movement which a number of issues showed losses ranging from fractions to more than a point. Among leaders affected were Union Pacific, Studebaker, U. S. Steel, New Haven, American Can and Rock Island.

BETHLEHEM STEEL SOLD AT 500.

Bethlehem Steel sold at 500, and among other issues to attain record highs were Republic Steel, Willys-Overland, Studebaker and American Steel Foundries. Distillers was at its highest in four years and U. S. Steel since 1916. The New York market opened on a higher level and more active, morning transactions totalling about half a million shares. As usual, largest gains were by war industrials, but rails were higher and copper firm. U. S. Steel was active and by afternoon had touched 87. There was much small lot trading in this issue. Its strength made bulls jubilant. Its third quarter earnings are estimated at $50,000,000. At the start there was outside buying and urgent covering of shorts in a number of stocks. More large war orders are about to be awarded, it is said. But the expansion of home trade is the most favorable factor. Profit-taking on a considerable scale followed the advance, but demand offset offerings. Prices averaged higher during the morning and afterwards.

Some of the speculative spirit appeared to be spreading. Selling pressure up to afternoon had failed to produce any reaction of importance. The report that this country will spend $1,000,000,000 for national defenses uplifted stocks of allied industrials. It is believed there is going to be great activity in domestic industrials. There was more business on the advance than on the decline. Following the early exchange was quiet and had an easier tone.

MORE TRADING AT HOME.

Increased business in New York stocks was a feature in Boston. It was of the small lot variety. Local issues rallied quite generally and much demand for other local coppers of since. The market here opened dull, did not show as much strength as New York, and was then narrow. American Woolen was strong because of its $7,000,000 war contract. Shoe Machinery was depressed by a federal litigation move. Dividend declarations helped Osceola and Almeada. Nothing new was said about the copper metal situation. Lead and spelter are quiet. In London spot copper was up 12s. 6d., futures 17s. 6d. and electrolytic unchanged. Lead was off 2s. 6d., and spelter was unchanged. Resumption of European copper buying on a large scale is looked for.

MAYOR REPLIES TO AMERICAN'S EDITORIAL

City of Boston, Office of the Mayor.
October 18, 1915.

To the Editor of the Boston AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir—In answer to the editorial which appeared in today's issue of the Boston AMERICAN in relation to the report of the Finance Commission upon the work of installing the high pressure system in Brookline, I desire to call your attention the following facts:

1—The Finance Commission's report does not charge that any of the official bid anything in connection with the high pressure system that justifies even a suspicion of graft.

2—If any grafting was done it was by the contractor in paying his laborers less than the scheduled wage. I have asked the Finance Commission, which has all the evidence in the case, to submit it to the District Attorney, for if the charges are true both the contractor's laborers and the city have been defrauded, and the contractor richly deserves punishment.

BIDDING ON CONTRACTS.

3—The Finance Commission has demonstrated how much the city is to advertise for bids for laying two miles of pipe, but this two miles was added to an existing contract which was advertised and let to the lowest bidder, and while two miles of pipe were added, no change was necessary, at the same time two miles of pipe were taken out of the original contract. If the Finance Commission objected to this readjustment of the contract on the ground that mile of pipe was taken out of the contract, while two miles were added to a cost plus profit basis, they would have used its influence to prevent it at the time instead of waiting now more than a year until this contractor's work was nearly completed.

4—In addition of two miles in substitution for another two miles taken out of the contract was authorized by the advice of Chief Engineer Rourke, an engineer of high standing and unquestioned honesty, and I fail to see how I can be justly criticised under these circumstances. Mr. Rourke knew that if he advertised for bids for this addition to the contract he would get higher bids and the city would have to pay by the original contractors for the pipe in the world now in use in the eliminated streets, the only profitable part of the original contract.

FAVORS ADVERTISING.

5—I favor letting contracts without advertisement, and my record when published will show a smaller percentage of unadvertised contracts than any Mayor Boston has ever had.

6—I do not favor cost plus profit contracts but in isolated cases emergencies may arise to justify them, as instanced in certain contracts. This was the case in the City Hall Annex contract, in the Fort Point Channel contract for the new pier, in the Cambridge subway contract, and in many cases where contracts have been let by the Commonwealth. The pipe-laying contract will compare favorably with any of these contracts. Respectfully, JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor of Boston.

1—There is nothing in the first paragraph of Mayor Curley's statement which contradicts any statement the AMERICAN has made concerning the high pressure contract. This newspaper did not say that the Finance Commission charged any city official with graft in that contract.

2—There is nothing in the second paragraph which contradicts anything the AMERICAN said in its editorial to which the above letter is a reply.

3—The AMERICAN does not hold any brief for the Finance Commission. If the bids should have been advertised by the city, the fact that the Finance Commission neglected to insist upon their advertisement, if it did, does not relieve the city from responsibility.

CASE OF MR. ROURKE.

4—Commissioner Rourke was not good enough for Mayor Curley to retain in office, and it is to be noted that the Mayor does not say specifically that he believes Mr. Rourke to be a competent authority on this matter. If he is such an authority, the Mayor ought not to have deprived the city of his services, and, from the above, he might not now to seek to avoid responsibility for accepting Mr. Rourke's advice.

5—If the Mayor's statement in paragraph 5 is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, he is entitled to great credit. Honestly advised contracts not only save the city money but it often saves the city's name from grievous loss.

6—All the contracts at "cost plus profit" which the Mayor cites, are examples which prove the inadvisability of these kind of contracts. The fact that the pipe-laying contract may "compare favorably with any of these contracts" does not prove that the pipe-laying contract was a good contract for the city to make.

7—The Mayor has done well to urge vigorous action by the District Attorney against the contractor in this matter if the contractor is guilty of misconduct.

Don't miss the opening installment of the big thrilling detective serial—"Pile No. 113"—which starts in tomorrow's BOSTON AMERICAN.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE;
OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Neutral Nations Must Join in Armenia's Aid

THE Committee on Armenian Atrocities has done its work well in laying before the American people a trustworthy report of at least a portion of the immeasurable savagery perpetrated upon the Armenian Christians by the Turks.

The question now arises: WHAT ARE WE, WHAT ARE THE HUMANE AND CHRISTIAN NATIONS OF THE WORLD TO DO FOR THE RESCUE OF THIS SUFFERING CHRISTIAN PEOPLE FROM THE SAVAGES OF THE FORCES OF ISLAM?

The United States, great and powerful as it is, cannot act alone. But its government can, and should in this emergency, summon to its aid all the neutral nations of the world in a common protest against this culminating act of centuries of Turkish barbarities.

That protest should be addressed not to Turkey, whose misguided fanatics think themselves doing the work of their God and his prophet Mohammed by thus annihilating the Armenian Christians. It must be presented to Germany, the ally of Turkey, a nation ever foremost in Christian service, whose people, plunged as they are in cruel war, must none the less revolt against the barbaric persecutions of a Christian nation by their savage ally.

The world is not all in arms. The fires of hatred, bred of months of cruel losses in war, have not yet been kindled in millions of human breasts in nations whose governments have wisely held aloof from this wicked struggle. In Europe, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Holland and Spain are still neutral. In our own hemisphere, all of the South American republics are untouched by the war madness. All these Christian nations would respond with avidity to the call of the United States for a League of Neutral Nations, which would put first among its tasks the defence of a common humanity.

The eminent men who have investigated Armenian conditions make a report that will stir every sentiment of compassion in every Christian heart. They tell of mothers forced to throw their babies by the wayside and tramp on into the wilderness with their Moslem captors; of men murdered and tortured by the thousands; of young girls sold at auction; of hosts driven into the Euphrates to drown miserably; of high dignitaries of the Armenian Church—Christians all—hanged, bastinadoed or subjected to other torture, and of great caravans of helpless people of both sexes and every age driven like cattle into the desert and left there to starve.

Can this record be read and tossed aside with merely a perfunctory regret that nothing can be done?

SOMETHING CAN BE DONE, though belatedly. Into the chaos of this war nothing should tempt the United States to plunge. Even into its tortuous diplomacy we should not enter unless the clearest call to the performance of a high duty summons us. Such a call and such a duty the Armenian crisis presents.

Let the United States take the lead in summoning a conference of the neutral nations for the purpose of addressing a joint protest to Germany against the barbarity of her ally. To that protest will be appended the signatures of all the governments of Europe with whom Germany is at peace; of all South American republics in which German interests before the war were great and greatly growing; and above all the seal of the United States, chief of all neutral nations, which numbers among its valued and honored citizens millions in whose veins flows German blood, and whose hearts revolt against the association of the Fatherland with the scimitar of Moslem savagery.

DOES ANY ONE FANCY THAT SUCH A PROTEST WOULD NOT HAVE A COMPELLING EFFECT? Can any one so utterly abandon all faith in mankind as to believe that the moral force of the united action of all the nations at peace would be without conclusive influence upon a single belligerent? Common sense and common humanity answer NO!

The AMERICAN has urged the formation of a League of Neutral Nations to define and protect the rights of neutrals. But its influence in the higher task of defending the rights of humanity against savagery would be an even greater justification for its immediate creation.

The City Needs Thomas J. Kenny in the Public Service

THE Budget Commission, of which Mr. Thomas J. Kenny is a member, has made its report on the budget question. It is a clear and simple report and undoubtedly recommends the best form of budget for the city of Boston. It has involved great painstaking and labor on the part of the members of the commission. The appreciation of the public they have won and will undoubtedly receive.

If the recommendation of the commission is accepted by the city, and the budget planned by the commission is adopted, the AMERICAN suggests to Mr. Thomas J. Kenny that if he would return to the City Government once more to help institute this new system it would be an important public service.

Everyone in Boston knows Mr. Kenny's ability, experience and honesty. The services of such a man as Mr. Kenny no city can well afford to lose. Unfortunately the qualities which make him an ideal public servant also make him a successful man in his legal profession. Thus, unfortunately, such men are pulled in two directions and frequently the public loses them because it is unable to discriminate and to appreciate the difference between the true and the false in their candidates for public office.

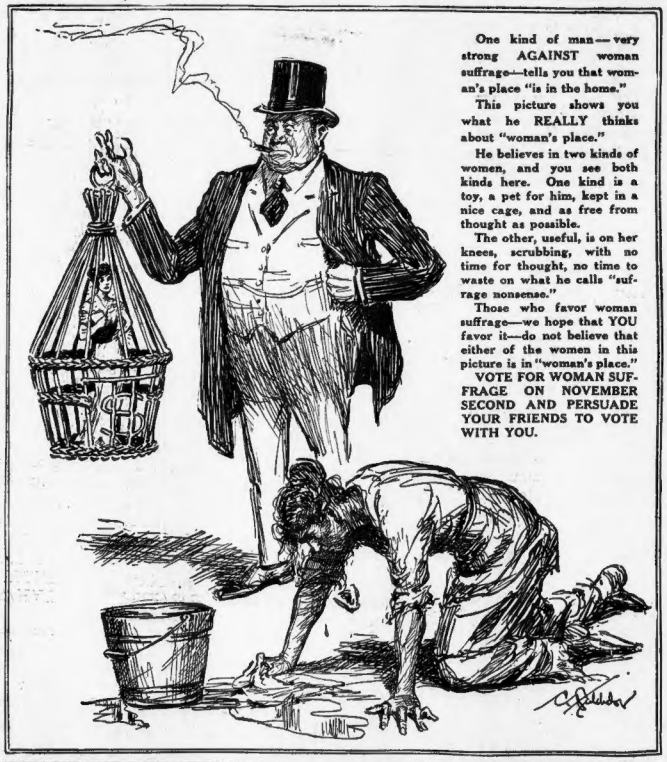
This does not mean that the public is unintelligent or unappreciative. It does mean, however, that it is exceedingly difficult for large numbers, even if they were all Solons, to know the character of candidates for office whom they do not know personally. Hence, it is easy for the pretender and the hypocrite to assume a virtue which he does not possess, while the REAL man finds it very difficult and offensive to PARADE a virtue which he really has.

That is the difficulty of government by representatives and that is why government by representatives has broken down in this country, and why we must have the Initiative and Referendum, by which the citizens can decide on measures and not men.

But when we have long experience with a man and have his record before us, it is easier to judge of him. We have had a long experience with Mr. Kenny in the civic life of Boston as a member of the School Board and as a member of the City Council. No breath of suspicion has ever blown in his direction and his judgment on public questions has not been seriously challenged.

If Mr. Kenny will return to the City Government he will confer a great benefit upon the people of Boston.

TWO (ANTI-SUFFRAGE) IDEAS OF WOMEN



One kind of man—very strong AGAINST woman suffrage—tells you that woman's place "is in the home."

This picture shows you what he REALLY thinks about "woman's place."

He believes in two kinds of women, and you see both kinds here. One kind is a toy, a pet for him, kept in a nice cage, and as free from thought as possible.

The other, useful, is on her knees, scrubbing, with no time for thought, no time to waste on what he calls "suffrage nonsense."

Those who favor woman suffrage—we hope that YOU favor it—do not believe that either of the women in this picture is in "woman's place."

Too Much Class System in America

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

WE Americans talk much of the abominable class system which prevails in Oriental countries to a great degree and to an equal degree in all European countries. We decry it and declare it unchristian. Nevertheless, all over America a similar condition of things exists wherever there is a college or university.

College societies cultivate snobbishness, unkindness, conceit, intolerance and a great many other vices which mar the lives of men and women. A woman who is the mother of two exceptionally beautiful and gifted daughters, now in college, writes feelingly on this subject.

Her girls do not possess worldly wealth, but they possess all other qualities which should make them desirable associates. The members of this college society have not hesitated to hurt and to humiliate these girls.

After speaking of the mental, spiritual and physical charms of her daughters who have been so humiliated, the mother says: "Take the opposite type of girl for an example of those who belong to this society. Their parents are affluent, even wealthy, in some instances so wealthy that the conversation of the girls is adorned with references to the number of servants they keep, the number of their automobiles and other similar possessions. They think of and consider no one but themselves. They can stab girls like mine to their sensitive souls and never give it a thought. They seem to actually enjoy this cruel demonstration of their petty power.

"My girls have almost perfect dispositions and a natural instinct to obey the Golden Rule. They are incapable of hatred, envy or malice, but they can suffer, and they have suffered, through the slights they have received from their schoolmates, who belong to this so-called high order of class society."

This is but one of similar cases which exist everywhere in America where college societies exist.

It is the same with men's colleges. False ideas of life, false standards, result from such societies. Teachers and professors do nothing whatever toward correcting the evils and the unjust conditions emanating from these college associations.

Because the members of these societies are usually young men and young women of wealthy parents and of financial, social or political power, no effort is made to change or better their methods. It is the old story of the power of might over right. The teacher, even the president of a college, who undertook to reform a college society and to make it democratic and [illegible] manly American in accordance [illegible] the early ideas of what Ame[illegible]tandards should be would s[illegible] himself asked to resign.

As our co[illegible] grows older and richer these [illegible] grow more pronounced. It is useless for worthy young men and women to rebel against the tyranny of college class societies. They must simply reach a higher moral outlook and realize how small and petty a thing membership in any society is when compared with the one great purpose of life, that of character-building.

The greatest, the most successful, the most useful, the most admirable people in our nation today have not, as a rule, shone in their youth as leaders in college class societies.

Many who so shone twenty years ago, and who adopted the airs of snobs toward those who were not members of the organization, would today gladly exchange places with those same snubbed classmates. It is to be understood, of course, that many excellent, kind-hearted and decently behaved young men and women belong to college societies; but it is also to be understood and emphasized that the general tenor of these societies is toward un-American standards and unchristian conduct toward their fellow-students.

It is very much like the military spirit abroad of officers toward the rank and file. Detestable, if not to use a stronger word beginning with the same first letter.
